

Andrew Jones Auctions does not provide in-house shipping services. We work with a group of third-party shipping firms who provide our clients with fast, efficient and economical services. Once our catalogue is published we encourage potential bidders to contact a shipping firm of their choice for competitive quotes. Shipping is the responsibility of the buyer to contact and arrange the removal and shipping of their purchased lots. Below is a list of suggested local shipping firms who pick-up frequently from our gallery to assist you.

Andrew Jones Auctions is not responsible for loss or damage of any kind to frames or any other item when in the possession of a third-party shipper or any unaffiliated individual or collection service. Andrew Jones Auctions does not recommend any one shipping firm over another.

Once shipping arrangements have been made, successful buyers must fill out and submit an Authorized Release Form.
