From the Editor

Spring has arrived with a record turnout at the DCC Spring Classic! It is great to see such a wide range of ages playing chess. Colorado chess has a bright future with so many strong young players and I'm honored to be able to photograph them. A big thanks to Lloyd Gauthier who has been working hard to update our chess clubs which are at the end of this issue. These clubs are essential to plant the seeds for future players. He is also been doing a great job posting on our CSCA Facebook page so check it out. Another action packed issue here thanks to the people who all volunteer to organize and run these great tournaments that we are lucky to have here in our state.

CSCA President Earle Wikle's Message

Winter was challenging this year with weather conditions impacting the Denver Chess Club's annual tournament a tribute to Martin Luther King Jr. and the CSCA Closed Championships. Despite the weather, the turnouts for the two events were not heavily affected. Five tied for first in the MLK Premier section, NM EAMON MONTGOMERY (2243), NM CHRISTOF PETERSON (2234), LM BRIAN D WALL (2228), NM ABHISHEK MALLELA(2148), NM DANIEL HERMAN (2115). The Colorado State Scholastic Championship was held at the beginning of February, and the DCC Spring Classic was held at the end of March, to officially kickoff the arrival of Spring. Congratulations to all the winners. There are many upcoming Colorado chess events schedule from here to June, so make sure to check the tournament calendar and make your plans to play chess in Colorado.

CSCA President, Earle Wikle

When I took over as DCC president 2 years ago, I thought it was just supposed to be temporary. As time has continued, I wanted to help build the attendance at DCC weekend tournaments and even added the Spring Classic. Which has increased in attendance every year since starting it. This years turnout was 164 players with five sections of play, and 50 players in the Premier section. Peter Barlay and I had our work cut out for us running around keeping everything going. There were many upset and strong new players winning many prizes. Many players like the ability to win a prize for top upset in their section. This was something I took from the club's Monthly tournaments on Tuesday and Thursday nights. In the first round, JEREMY ROLDAN score top upset in the Premier section against NM DANIEL HERMAN. JASON NIGATU scored two upset against two masters (NM GRIFFIN MCCONNELL and LM BRI-AN WALL), and finished with a last round with a draw against CM RHETT LANGSETH to tie for 2nd through 5th place. LM SULLIVAN MCCONNELL and NM EAMON MONTGOMERY tied for first in the Premier section with 4½ points, and three tied for 3rd through 5th, with 4 points. Great job everyone and congratulations. Thank you to all the players and congratulations to all the winners. I hope everyone had an enjoyable time and will want to come again in May for the Denver Open.

Colorado State Chess Association (CSCA) Members Meeting January 16, 2025

Participants:

Earle Wikle (President)
Jesse Cohen (Vice President)
Duwayne Langseth
Dean
Todd
Nicholas Brookins (Secretary)

New Business:

Earle switched meeting to Thursday so Tom could participate.

Earle asked if anyone would be interested in participating in the children's chess: Peter and Benny reached out for the kindergartners, and they were excited to participate again.

Earle and Jesse both sent out scholastic state representatives and 200+ rated K-12 players in Colorado to inform them of the scholastic tournament coming up. Earle is considering sending it out to those who have played in the last three years. Jesse is interested in putting together a budget for this year for advertising.

Jesse said George came up with a list of schools and people that were representatives, and the people he contacted had a high turnover and it was difficult to get a handle on.

Concerns of not allowing other states players participating in our scholastic championships to represent Colorado at a national level. The Wyoming children should be allowed since they are such a small contingent. They just can't win the championship, related to being from out of state.

Todd stated he should arrive at 4pm on Friday to start setting up for the scholastic championship. He has all the boards, numbers, and should be receiving the awards in the next few days. Tables are set up per Todd.

Recommended that at the start of the event we let participants and parents know what venders will be present for food and the trucks and where they will be located.

The flyer in the past was blank on the last page, and the concern is that it might cost it more for adding on an additional printed page. Todd said it would not cost an additional amount. Earle asked Jesse to provide a list of vendors to Todd to have it placed in the booklet (flyer).

There is a new protocol; to have the Fire Marshall check each vendor out just once and they don't have to come every day.

Barbecue, Indian, and Pizza are the three vendors who will be participating.

Earle will be present at the scholastic championship running the DGT boards. Duwayne will not be present, Karthika was present last year. Earle is asking how many TD's, and Todd is saying 4 TDs. Checking the kids in and maneuvering the tables. Jesse, Karthika, Todd, and Pete and Penny may be able to be talked into helping. Dean will be at the computer and doing all the pairings. WIFI access, laser printer, and extra paper Is all Dean is asking for.

The fairground, Sharmila, made the payment, and Earle received an email.

The table configuration should be the same. Earle discussed dividing up the DGT boards for each of the four sections. That way people can watch the top players on a large screen and to be pushed out to the internet so people can watch online. Earle may have to expand by an extra table to fit in a few new boards. Earle will call Jessica Heights and ask for an extra stack of chairs and tables to ensure we have enough. If we use them, we will be charged. They have cameras to watch us, but Earle reported how many tables and chairs we utilized last year.

Commentary: Earle is asking what to do? Griffin possibly? Kevin or Griffin may be approached to see if they want to do it for a couple of rounds. Jesse would like to do a couple of rounds as far as commentary.

Dean is set up for accommodations and already set up through Todd.

The Fairfield hotel is the closet hotel next to the venue.

Ensure that the parents and children are aware that they not have cell phones during the tournament.

Earle would like a posting of the, "Byes", and the parents need to stick around for trophies, or an address so we can send them to the participants.

Dean: last time ensure that memberships are up to date before the first round. There are already 5 people that need to update their memberships to participate.

The tournament starts the first weekend of February 1-2.

The dues have gone up for adults and children.

Todd left the meeting since we are done with the scholastic portion of the meeting. Tom Nelson is also out of the meeting.

Safe play: there is a refresher course. 7 questions.

Website: No new updates on the website. Earle was meaning to speak with Marmar concerning the website. Daniel Marmar makes websites, and to see if he could do it and what he would charge to make it. Stripe is the avenue to use a payment process. Just like using Caisa. Chess is considered a form of gambling, and we may have to switch platforms instead of using Stripe to transition into using, "Square". Speak with Chris Peterson to see if he may be able to assist in making the website. Dean stated using WordPress would be the easiest to use.

Earle asked Jesse to get with his guys, and Jesse stated he would connect the website guy Jesse knows and let Earle speak with him.

MLK this weekend on Jan 18-19, 2025.

Financials: No update	es at this time.
With no new further	business to discuss,	the meeting will	adjourn.

Colorado State Chess Association Members Meeting Minutes November 14, 2024

The CSCA 284 Current members as of November 14, 2024.

Actions Election of officers: (All by unanimous voice vote as of Sept 2024).

President: Earle Wikle Vice President: Jesse Cohen Treasurer: Sharmilah Prabhua Secretary: Nicholas Brookins

Election of other board members: (All by unanimous voice vote)

At Large: DuWayne Langseth

Second member at large: Tom Nelson (state scholastic coordinator).

Scholastic coordinator on the board: Tanya Prabhua

NEW BUSINESS:

State Scholastic Chamionship:

Contract for Fairgrounds for state scholastic championship. Earle sent it out for review for the board. Earle presented the contract during the meeting via ZOOM. We get the deposit back if no damages, and we don't get charged if we don't use additional chairs. The charges this year are the same as prior years to reflect similar charges, and only has increased a little bit. Earle does believe he can reduce the cost of security. Earle would like two games on each table instead of three games. Hotels are starting to add security to all events, large events across the U.S. for the USCF level. Jesse asked if anyone is looking around for venues to compare prices. The parent room is the challenging aspect with the youth chess tournaments. Jesse is mentioning that another venue could save us a considerable amount of money by charging us only $375 for a three-day event. Earle is wanting to agree to finalize the contract for the Fairground and state scholastic championship. The board unanimously voted to approve the contract.

Jesse was contacted by Paradise Inn, and they were wanting to offer same prices as last year. We charged them $500 last time. Jesse also wants to consider contacting "What Would Cheesus Do" as a food contractor.

T-Shirts: would like a decision to be made write away. They are awaiting us to sign a contract. It is a percentage of sales. Plus they do a shirt for everyone. We pay them for the shirts. They have been a longtime partner and we have a valuable relationship with the T-shirt manufacturer. Tom has the contract and is the scholastic coordinator. Earle's signature is required. Earle states he will sign it ASAP and get it sent off.

Duwayne wants to not participate as a TD, but rather just being a computer assistant.

Booklet: Tom is going to work on a booklet. Earle would like a cut off date, Tom stated January 10, 2025 is the cut off date for the booklet.

Future meetings: Another meeting in December and January Earle is recommending additional meetings. Trailer, T-shirts, Trophies (Tom, Earle is sending an email to order the trophies).

Marketing: Jesse mentioned wanting to possibly change the marketing plan by making flyers and distribute them to students in schools. Maybe print off several thousand flyers and market the scholastic tournament and attract more participants.

*Project: Jesse: Title 1's. Two schools, they both got approved to get 8 chess sets, and 16 youth memberships for each school. Possibly keep the ones that the schools do not use, and have kids that come to the scholastics that we could get them registered and get the youth rated. Three schools can be sanctioned by the USCF through the Title 1 program. Jesse is wanting to possibly get 2-3 additional schools involved. Chess Club Starter Kit; 10 chess sets and a demo board for $119 before discounts. $90 for this deal for one school. Jesse would like to consider having a larger impact on our community to get more chess involvement. Possibly a budget of $1,000. Unanimously voted on providing $1,000 to Jesse to acquire chess sets for the Title 1 schools.

Website: Dean. No one can get in touch with Dean concerning the website. The Chess Informant was uploaded to the website, but otherwise, no changes have occurred. Duwayne stated he will try to contact Dean to see if he would consider giving us the keys to the website so we can take over the site.

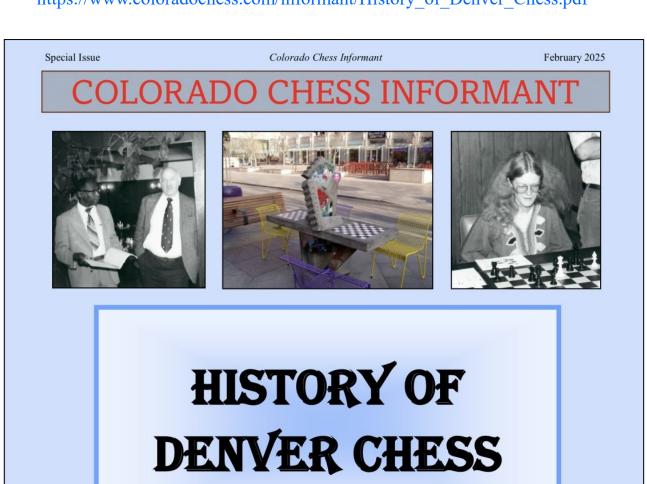

Financials

Sharmila: US Bank, wanted to go tomorrow and put things together with the bank. Earle states it requires the meetings. Asking for Nicholas to send Sharmila for the September 2024 notes. The official notes should suffice for Sharmila to get the bank issue.

With no new fur	ther business to discuss, the meeting will adjourn.

DCC Tribute to Martin Luther King Tournament

Reprinted with permission from JC Macneil

...at any DCC tournament you will find competition.

A tribute is a statement intended to show gratitude, respect, and admiration. Today, countless people would express exactly that when speaking of Martin Luther King. The Denver Chess Club naming a chess tournament in his honor is a small thing compared to what he did for countless people of color. Racism was once accepted as perfectly okay, particularly in the southern states. Rural country stores would have two water fountains. One for "Whites Only" and another set at a lower level, grungy, and labeled for "Coloreds". Which I've seen with my own eyes. The heading and all the photos used in this report are by John Brezina. Also note that his excellent photography is not necessarily related to the text.

Not Rosa Parks, but Kaavya Sakthisaranan would not have gone to the back of the bus either

When Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat to a white man and go to the back of a Montgomery, Alabama bus, Reverend King, and his friend Ralph Abernathy, organized a nationwide civil rights movement, which led to the Civil Rights Act of 1964. A law that was intended to right the wrongs of racism. We have come a long way, but to say racism has been eradicated from American society would be wishful thinking.

A record attendance of wall to wall chess players at the MLK

I am pleased to note that the 2025 MLK attendance had a record registration of 154 players. Despite a cold snowing winter storm blowing outside. A significant increase from the 2024 registration of 134 players, when there wasn't a cold snowing winter storm blowing outside :-) Chess continues to grow in popularity here in America and worldwide. Chess.com has a registration of over 100 million members!! Internet chess is all well and good, but over the board, face to face against an opponent, in a tournament for prize money and USCF rating points is the real thing.

NM Brian Wall (w) vs. NM Eamon Montgomery (b)

So then on to who won what at the DCC 2025 Tribute to MLK.

The Premier section was especially strong with no less than six National Masters, and I'm sure Candidate Master, Rhett Langseth, will soon have the National Master title. So it is no surprise that NM Eamon Montgomery, NM Chris Peterson, NM Abhishek Mallela, NM Daniel Herman, and LM Brian Wall all finished with 4 points. LM is not a typo. Mr. Colorado Chess has been playing good chess for so long that he has earned the USCF Life Master title. Each player took home 290 dollars. Not bad money for sitting down and doing what they like to do anyway.

Griffin McConnell is not at all camera shy

Shirley

Expert Luis Jimenez, Amitia Sebba, and Jason Nigatu all ended up with 3.5 points and they share the U2100 prize of 249 dollars and 99 cents. Luis had to hold NM Griffin McConnell to a last round draw to earn his share of the prize money. The 100 dollar Premier section Upset Prize went to Clifton Ford (1800) for his round 2 win against Daniel Herman (2115) Mr. Ford's other two wins were also big upsets. He only lost in the last round to NM Mallela.

Poking at my brain helps me think

Krish Mathimaran ruled the U1800 section. Taking 1st place with 4.5 points that included two Upset wins and an Upset draw. This fine performance put 400 dollars in his pocket. Emmett Lignell and Enrico Moss finished with 4 points and share the combined 2nd and 3rd place prize of 500 dollars. All of Enrico's points, except for his last round win, were Upsets. The rating point difference totaled up to 413.5 points. (when it's a draw the rating point difference is halved.) The 100 dollar U1800 Upset Prize went to Neel Yadatore(1471) for his round 4 win against Andrew Starr (1765) Neel's other points were also from winning against higher rated players.

Nick Hvizda - who I only recognize because he has been winning all his games at the DCC monthly Thursday night tournament

Nick Hvizda has been winning all his games at the DCC Thursday night monthly tournament and here at the MLK he allowed a last draw to end up taking 1st place in the U1600 section with 4.5 points and he took home 350 dollars. Joseph Reininger and Ryan Hajjali both finished with 4 points and incredibly their points were all from upsetting their opponents. The combined rating point difference of both players totaled up to an astounding 1177.5 points. Mr. Hajjali (1240) also won the 100 dollar U1600 Upset prize for his last round win against Andrew Robinchard (1578).

In the U1400 section, there was a three way tie for 1st place. Thus, Tarun Karthikeyan, Tristan Heikes, and Lucas Vasquez each won 216 dollars and 67 cents. Turan didn't have to upset anyone. Tristan (1323) had a last round Upset win over Devin Banks. (1326) and Lucas (1288) had to earn his prize money by upsetting three of his opponents. The rating point difference totaled up to 172 points. Not a big difference but upsetting is upsetting. The 100 dollar Upset prize went to Shri Sha Ramkumar (1057) when he won his round 4 against Nathan Hight (1337).

I know there is a good move somewhere in this position

Jason Wuu only allowed a last round draw to Noah Keene and won the U1200 section with 4.5 points. Which put a prize check of 300 dollars in his wallet. Mr. Keene, Jeremy Piech, and Viaan Kandelwal all won 100 dollars by scoring four out of five points. Anirudh Saibalian (831) won the 150 dollar U1200 prize by winning against higher rated Anaya Medu in round 4. The 100 dollar U1200 Upset prize was won by Seam Mattews (367) for his round 1 win over Jonathan Reinhard (973). Mr. Mattews also had huge upset wins against Nicholas Brookins (843) and Dan Ruparel (703).

By my count, there were 119 upset wins or draws at this DCC event. I like to highlight Upsets because anytime a player wins, or holds a draw against a higher rated player, it had to have been a good game. I think it's safe to say at any DCC tournament you will find competition.

It was good to see Madeleine Finch, back at the chess board, pink hair and all :-)

Youngster Charlie Kovacs playing USCF rated tournament chess. A possible future GM at the board

Shirley Herman is increasingly becoming a better player

I've said before that the more women that get involved in chess the better it will be for the royal game. I'd like to see a single chess world championship and have a woman take the title from a man. It could happen and why not?

Thanks to DCC President Earle Wikle for organizing the tournament and setting up the DGT boards. Thanks to the Tournament Directors, Tom Nelson, and Peter Barlay. They got the pairings correct and the rounds started on time. Thanks to John Brezina for the photos used in this report. See all of Mr. Brezina's photos here:

https:// photos.app.goo.gl/9znoiQAAPdLuhD7L7

Thanks especially to the 154 players who registered to play in the tournament. We hope to see y'all at the 2026 MLK. Thanks to Chris Peterson for selecting a Best Game in addition to analyzing his own games from the tournament.

Thanks again to all,

JC Macneil

Best Game

by NM Christofer Peterson

There were many great games played at the tournament over the weekend. Some great struggles were being displayed live on DGT boards. Those games can be viewed on this website: DGT board games. I picked a game from one of those DGT broadcast games to be the best game of the MLK tribute tournament. The game features many complicated tactical positions that provide lessons on how to approach those kinds of situations. It also concludes with a satisfying king hunt.

Sebba, Amitai (1865) Sakthisaravanan, Kaavya (1767) Round 5 of DCC Tribute to MLK 2025 [2025 01 18]

[2025.01.18] 1. e4 c5 2. d4 cxd4 3. c3 The Smith-Morra is an interesting gambit. It is one of the more sound, true gambit openings. It is also a very popular antisiclian weapon. A black player with any sicilian in their repretoire needs to have a response to this gambit. 3... Nf6 This is one of many mainlines against the Smith-Morra because it transposes into the Alapin Sicilian. Studying the Alapin as black and using this transposition will allow you to consolidate your studying. This opening has the seal of approval of players like Carlsen, Giri, and Praggnanandhaa who all essayed it with success in recent years. (3... dxc3 My preferred method is to meet the gambit headon by capturing. My general plan is known as the Pin defense, where I rapidly play e6, Bb4, and castle kingside. A lot of the times I end up trading hte bishop for the knight and playing a quick d5 or f5. I have had quite a bit of success with it, even against leading Smith-Morra theoreticians like IM Marc Esserman. 4. Nxc3 Nc6 5. Nf3 e6 6. Bc4 Bb4 7. O-O Nge7 8. Bg5 h6 9. Bh4 Bxc3 10. bxc3 O-OI think black is doing very well here. White has to two bishops so some complications need to be navigated but black is solid and has many counterattacking possiblities.)(3... d3 This is another, more conservative option. It does not score as well as the other two.) 4. e5 Which ever response you decide to go with, make sure you look up the key ideas and main lines. Anyone who plays the Smith-Morra from the white side will be familliar with them. 4... Nd5 5. Nf3 Nc6 6. cxd4 d6 7. Bc4 Nb6 8. Bb3 q6?! This move is a bit slow. It is important in the Alapin for black to play decisively in the center of the board quickly to avoid a plethora of traps. (8... dxe5 9. d5 Na5 10. Nc3 Nxb3 11. Qxb3 e6 12. Nxe5 exd5 13. Be3 Bd6 14. Qb5+ This is the line Anish Giri used as black to defeat Shakhriyar Mamedyarov.) 9. Ng5 Putting immediate pressure on black's position. 9... e6? An understandable reaction but it is better to close lines rather than maintain the tension. Black's king is in danger and that overrides the principle of keeping tension in the position. (9... d5 10. Nc3 h6 This is the way to navigate the pressure and complications. White will be better due to the space advantage and superior piece coordination. 11. Nf3 Bg7 12. h3 Bf5 13. O-O±) 10. Qf3! f5 An overreaction but other moves don't provide much safety either. (10... Qc7 11. Nc3 Threatening Nb5 11... dxe5 12. O-O Nxd4 13. Qf6 Rg8 14. Nxh7 Bg7 15. Bg5!! Bxf6 16. Nxf6+ Kf8 17. Bh6+ Rg7(17... Ke7 18. Nxg8+ Ke8 19. Nf6+ Ke7 20. Bg5 Kf8 21. Rac1+- Despite having a queen and pawn for a rook and bishop, black is completely lost.) 18. Bxg7+ Ke7(18... Kxg7 19. Ne8+ Kf8 20. Nxc7+-)) 11. exf6 Nxd4 12. f7+ Ke7 13. Qe4 It is hard to say which square is best for the queen. I am partial to g3 as it keeps the queen sheltered from most of the attacks. 13... Nxb3?? Black does not have time to capture this bishop. The king is too exposed.(13... Bg7 This defends the knight and protects the exposed h4-d8 diagonal. 14. O-O d5 15. Qd3 Kf8 It is scary having the king so exposed but black is mitigating the damage in this line.) 14. axb3 White missed a big opportunity here. Skewer tactics are in the air due to the black king and queen being lined up on the h4-d8 diagonal.(14. Nxe6! Bxe6 There is no way to save the queen. (14... Qd7 15. Nc5+) 15. Bg5+ Kxf7 16. Bxd8 Nxa1 17. Qxb7+ Kg8 18. Bxb6 Re8 19. O-O axb6 20. Nd2 Nc2 21. Qe4+- White will pick up the knight and be up a queen, knight, and pawn for rook and two bishops. Not the easiest material advantage to convert but white is clearly winning.) 14... Bg7 15. O-O (15. Nc3 Games with an exposed king and many open lines are great because of the complex tactical ideas the come out of them. Studying these games helps you recognize tactical patterns which will help you win in the future. 15... d5 16. Qb4+ Qd6 17. Qh4 Kf8 18. Nb5 Qe7 19. Bd2 Threatening Bb4 19... d4 20. Qg3 Threatening Nc7 and eyeing d6. 20... h6 21. Nf3 Kxf7 22. Nd6+ Kg8 23. Nh4 e5 24. Nxc8 Nxc8 25. Nxg6 Of course none of this is forced but there are so many complicated lines that the screen would be flooded and our brains would be overwhelmed.) 15... e5?(15... Kf8It is important to get the king and queen off the same diagonal.) 16. Nxh7?? Throwing away the advantage by giving black an easy plan to untangle and possibly counter attack down the h-file. . (16. Nc3 Kf8 17. Qb4 Qe7 18. Rd1 d5 There are a ton of lines that could be explored because each move opens a new set of candidate moves. I wanted to show this one because of the queen sacrifice. 19. Qxb6!! axb6 20. Rxa8 Qxg5 Black has nothing better (20... Qd8 21. Rxd5+-)(20... Bf6 21. Rxc8+ Kg7 22. Rxh8 Kxh8 23. Nxd5 Qd6 24. Ne4+- Absolutely devastating for white.) 21. Bxg5 Kxf7 22. Nxd5+- White is just up a full rook.) 16... Rxh7 17. Qxg6 Qh8 18. Bg5+ Kd7?? It is counterintuitive to put the king in a box but here it is necessary. f8 is the only square where the king finds safety as black has all of his pieces nearby. Running the queenside is a mistake because there is no shelter over there. White has many open lines: the a-file, c-file, the f3-c6 diagonal, the h3-c8 diagonal plus many pieces to use those open lines. (18... Kf8 Here black is boxed in, yes, but there are no direct open lines to the king. Black will be able to consolidate and with a little care, round up the fpawn. White also needs to beware of checkmating attacks down the hfile. 19. Nc3 Rxh2 20. Qxd6+ Kxf7 21. Qe7+ Now white has nothing better than a perpetual. 21... Kg6(21... Kg8 22. Qe8+ Bf8 23. Qg6+ Bg7) 22. Qd6+ Kf7 23. Qe7+ Kg6 24. Qd6+) 19. Qf5+ And now the king hunt begins. 19... Kc7 20. Rc1+ Kb8 21. Be7(21. Qc2 Wins a little faster 21... Nd5 22. Be7 Rh6 23. f8=Q Qxf8(23... Bxf8 24. Qxc8#) 24. Bxf8 Bd7(24... Bxf8 25. Qxc8#) 25. Bxg7+- White is up a tremendous amount of material and still has a mating attack.) 21... Rh6(21... a6 The last chance for black to maintain a little hope. 22. Bxd6+ Ka7 23. Nc3 Bd7 (23... Bxf5 24. Nb5#) 24. Bc5 Rd8 (24... An excellent attacking game from Amitai Sebba. There were many teachable moments within the complications and it was a pleasure going through the game. The key takeaways are to be afraid of open lines near your king and avoid trading when you are attacking. Amitai did a great job maintaining the pressure and continuing the attack. Garry Kasparov said if you maintain the initiative long enough, eventually your opponent will make a fatal mistake.

Amitai Sebba

Colorado State Scholastic tournament

By Earle Wikle

The Colorado State Scholastic tournament was held Feb. 1-2 at the Arapahoe county fairgrounds with 196 scholastic chess players competing for top trophies in each section. Much thanks go out to all the Volunteers and dedicated workers: Chief Tournament Director Todd Bardwick, Assistant Directors Tom Nelson, Dean Clow, Jesse Cohen, DuWayne Langseth, and Karthika Sakthisaravanan. Also, much thanks to our volunteers Penny and Peter Canacci. Without everyone's help the tournament would not have been successful. Winners this year will receive an $800 stipend.

Winners for this year's national events are: GRAYSON MANUEL – 2025 CSCA Denker Qualifier Champion KRISH MATHIMARAN – 2025 CSCA Barber Qualifier Champion FELIX MCMILLAN – 2025 CSCA Rockefeller Qualifier Champion

TANYA PRABHU — 2025 CSCA Haring Qualifier Champion

Colorado Closed Championships

By Earle Wikle

The closed championship was held March 7-9 at the Sheraton. Despite the delayed start due to terrible weather Friday night, the tournament had great competition. For the past three years the tournament has produced a new Colorado Master. Well this year it was not the championship section but the challenger section. PATRICK ZIJLSTRA finished with a perfect 5-0 score to make his rating go to 2216 with 20 provisional games. Five more games at master level and he will have achieved his USCF Master certificate. Maybe that will be soon.

Thank you to all the players and Congratulations to all the winners. Here is the top finisher per section:

1 NM GRIFFIN MCCONNELL 4 : 1st Championship 2 LM SULLIVA MCCONNELL 3½ : 2nd Championhip 3 NM EAMON MONTGOMERY 3½ : 2nd Championhip

So many sections, so many prize winners.

Note that all the pictures used in this report were taken by John Brezina. Also, the photos are not necessarily related to the text but were selected mainly to show the incredible range of people who play chess.

Of course, I had to use another room shot to show the record attendance :-)

Another DCC record tournament registration. The inaugural DCC Spring Classic in 2023 attracted a not bad 90 players. Last year, 138 players signed up. This year, 164 players registered to participate with high hopes of winning a share of the over 5000 dollar prize fund. Over because DCC President Earle Wikle announced in the TLA that if more than 135 registered the prize fund would grow and did it ever. 6000 dollars was paid out to the winners by DCC Treasurer Niall Case. If a prize winner could not wait for the last round to finish, Mr. Case would have the prize check in the mail the next day. 27 players went home with money in their pocket, or in their mailbox within a few days. Any amount won over the entry fee I consider to be free money, and with six sections, every player has a chance for that free money.

Last room shot, i promise :-)

All that said, the truth is most players are gladly paying an entry fee just to test their skill or to gain USCF rating points. Trying to move up to the next higher USCF rating bracket. Simply because to do that results in a real sense of accomplishment. I've been a "b" player for 40 years and only have a 1600 floor because I briefly went over 1800 many, many years ago. Yet, the fascination with chess remains. No bells, no whistles, no cards, no dice, and everything is in plain sight, and still, I usually have no idea what the best move is in any given position all these years later.

Everyone who plays chess in Colorado knows who this is: Mr. Colorado chess, Brian Wall

So then, on to who won what at the 2025 DCC Spring Classic. In the Premier Section, only Rhett Langseth held Sullivan McConnell to a draw in Round 4, and Sullivan won all his other games. Ending up tied with Eamon Montgomery, who only gave up a draw to Kayie Zang in Round 3. Rhett and Sullivan both took home the tidy sum of 657 dollars and 57 cents.

Dean Brown is another player who has been playing in Colorado since forever

Rhett Langseth, a USCF Candidate Master, tied for 3rd place with Jason Nigatu and Emmett Lignell. Each player scored 4 points, but Mr. Nigatu's (1869) other than in round 1, were all upset wins. Namely, against Griffin McConnell (2177), Brian Wall (2204), and a last round draw against Mr. Langseth (2154). Mr. Lignell's points were also Upsets, but all were less than a 100 point rating difference. Just my arbitrary definition of not a real Upset. Nevertheless, Jason, Rhett, and Emmett each won 213 dollars and 13 cents. Jermey Roldan (1821) won the 115 dollar Upset Prize for his Round 1 win against Daniel Herman (2168).

This youngster, Jason Nigatu, will likely be playing chess in Colorado forever....

....and it's likely this youngster will too Charlie Kovacs

In the U1800 section with a 1st round forfeit win (his opponent didn't show up) Henry Kovacs went on to take 1st place and win 450 dollars with 4.5 points. Only allowing a last round draw to John Schoenke. . Mr. Schoenke finished with 4 points and took home 350 dollars. Ethan Crane won the 3rd place prize of 250 dollars with 3.5 points. The 115 dollar U1800 Upset Prize was won by Adan Dawdy (1525) for his Round 1 win over Charlie Zetterower (1733)

This kid looks like he has some experience.

Unrated Vincent Kiftenbled ruled the U1600 section. Only allowing a Round 1 draw to Owen Christ, and otherwise winning all his games, to take home 400 dollars. Rohan David scored 4 points and won the 2nd place prize of 260 dollars. Jack

Henry Kovacs looks like he has some experience

Unrated Vincent Kiftenbled ruled the U1600 section. Only allowing a Round 1 draw to Owen Christ, and otherwise winning all his games, to take home 400 dollars. Rohan David scored 4 points and won the 2nd place prize of 260 dollars. Jack Gottlibe and James LaMorgese each won 75 dollars by scoring 3.5 points. Karthick Sakthisaravanan won the 115 dollar Upset Prize when she won against Mr. Gottlibe in Round 4.

This gentleman has probably been playing since before he could grow a beard

In the U1400 section again, an Unrated player took 1st place. Jothan Buck had a last round bye and won all his other games to take home 375 dollars. Truan Karthikeyan, Zander Mcelhinney, and Jonathan Olson all finished with 4 points and each player won 95 dollars. Jonathan Reinhard (893) won the 115 dollar Upset prize when he won against Carter Worcester (1300) in round 4.

Joe Aragon didn't have a mustache when he started playing chess

Simon Steel scored a perfect 5-0 to take 1st place in the U1200 section and win 350 dollars. Eric Zhang (654) took 2nd place by winning against higher rated players in every round, to end up with 4.5 points and take home 230 dollars. Big bucks and lots of rating points makes a good tournament. Jude Heffern won the 3rd place prize of 115 dollars with 4 points. Rishabh Nair and James Goodin share the 170 dollar U1000 prize. The 115 dollar Upset prize was won by Tyler Amick (451) for his Round 2. win over Frank Atwood (945).

Shirley Herman is improving her game by leaps and bounds

2024 FIDE World Championship Singapore

By John Brezina

2024 was an incredible year for chess. For me it started out in Wijk Aan Zee in January for the 86th edition of Tata Steel. While former World Champion Magnus Carlsen was absent, the current World Champion Ding Liren was playing along with several future Candidates. One of those being a young Indian player named Gukesh Dommeranju who took second place in a tie-break thriller with Wei Yei. Then in April, the FIDE Candidates tournament took place in Toronto Canada to determine the challenger to the World Champion. Two American players were considered favorites, Hikaru Nakamura and Fabiano Caruana. But after 14 grueling rounds, the young Gukesh came out on top of the 8player field by half a point to become the challenger to the crown!

Gukesh at Tata Steel with two world champions at his back

Three months later in Toronto: World Champion Challengers

Summer had passed by and initially did not think I would attend the World Championship. Partly since no host city had been selected and scheduling can be difficult, and partly since there was not an American playing. I figured the host city would be somewhere difficult for me to attend since the players were from China and India. Later in the year when it was announced that Singapore would host the entire championships, I began to reconsider. Singapore had been on my list of places to visit for some time, and when I learned United flew direct from San Francisco, the planning began.

Beautiful Singapore was chosen to host: Who could resist?

First was to apply for media accreditation through FIDE. Once this was approved, the real planning began. Which rounds would I try to attend? I certainly could not afford to attend all 14 games over three weeks. The early games started on Thanksgiving week, a no-go. So instead, I looked at the final games. I worked out my schedule to attend the final two games. Yes, be there for the crowning victory. But wait, what if there are enough decisive games and all 14 games are not played? What to do. After looking at my schedule again and flights, I settled on games 7-9 so I would at least see some of the matches in case it did not go the distance. With hotels finally booked and much research on Singapore in hand, I made my way halfway around the world. Approximately 10,000 miles from Denver!

Nonstop across the Pacific Ocean: Amazing Airliners

Flying into Singapore, you land at one of the best airports in the world, Changi. A stunning gateway to this remarkable and beautiful city. On final approach you fly over one of the busiest sea lanes with ships lined up as far as you can see. I couldn't help but spend a little time checking out the airport as my flight arrived mid morning. A must see is the famed shopping complex called Jewel. A cavernous indoor greenhouse and playland with the largest indoor waterfall. And this is all surrounded by multi levels of shopping and dining on an enormous scale. Definitely the best airport for long layovers. Leaving the airport is incredibly easy on the train that links up with the city subway lines. A short two dollar ride brings you into the heart of Singapore where you can branch out all around the city. I headed south to Sentosa Island where the match was being

Changi "Jewel" Not your typical airport

The island is an incredible complex of hotels and resorts with Universal Studios at its epicenter. A monorail takes you onto the island into the heart of the Universal complex. It was a short walk through an array of shopping and dining areas to reach the Equarius Hotel where the match took place. I arrived early for game seven in order to pick up my credentials and learn the layout of the land. At the main entrance for fans there was a quick security screening and then into the main area that had an interactive display put on by Google, the main sponsor of the tournament. One of the main rooms was the fan zone where fans could relax, play chess, or watch the match on screens. At the back was a nice historical display of past championship matches. Each day a special event or talk was scheduled before or during the main match.

The main tournament entrance at the Equarius Hotel

Of course, the main attraction was the viewing area which was for ticketed fans. That was in a theater-like room that seated quite a large number of fans. In the back was a VIP only room which would later become a gathering for a private closing. Fans were allowed phones for photos for only the first 30 minutes and then had to exit and then be screened for electronics upon re-entry. The main stage had a one-way mirror glass wall that separated the players from the fans, called the glass cube. This provided silence for the players and eliminated distractions. To the sides of the stage were large screens that displayed the game for fans to follow. The closest seats to the stage were reserved for special guests but there were plenty of seats that gave a good view of the players.

The first view when entering the main hall

The theater-like viewing area

The scheduled event at the start of round seven was a talk by former Women's World Rapid & Blitz Champion Anna Muzychuk. Before that I settled into the media room to organize my equipment and get my special wristband that was needed in order to go onto stage with the players for the start of the game. A nice surprise was seeing the popular chess streamer IM Eric Rosen in the media room being interviewed by Chessbase India. He was invited for special events during the match and even got back to his roots, as an official match photographer for several games. Many other familiar faces and friends gathered as time neared for game seven.

A strict meeting time was twenty minutes before the match in order to be escorted into the glass cube by FIDE's head of public relations, Anna Volkova. There was a small group of us each day that made our way onto the stage as we lined up behind Anna with cameras ready. We left the media room and cut through the fans entering the lobby and made our way through security to the backstage entrance. It was like a Presidential motorcade making our way past any barrier with ease, finally coming up to the backstage door to the "cube". Upon entering, the beautiful chess board and table are the center of attention with the players' national flags proudly displayed. We were staged along the glass and instructed to stay low so as to not block the spectators' view nor the cameras. The arbiters had a table on each side of the stage and made final preparations along with a few instructions for us.

The beautiful playing board of champions

The match at this point was tied 3-3 after six games but with plenty of excitement. Game one and the world champion Ding Liren struck first with a victory over the young challenger. With a total of fourteen games now played, every victory puts the pressure on the player behind as draws are the historical norm. Game two did end in a draw as players settled in for the long haul. Gukesh incredibly bounced back in game three after trapping a minor piece and coasting to victory to tie the match. Only three games played and two decisive results already. Perhaps the match will not go the entire fourteen games and my decision to arrive mid-match was a wise one. The next three games were draws and led us to game seven here where we await the players' arrival.

Waiting for the players to arrive

We were allowed only ten minutes to capture photos or video once the game began and were limited in our space to move around. Being in the right position from the start was important and all cameras were pointing at the back door where the players would appear. The exact moment that door opened was unknown and the challenger always came onstage first. Host and moderator Maurice Ashley entered first and got into position behind the board facing the audience. Shortly after, the door swung open and Gukesh hurried onstage to take his place at the board as cameras clicked away with the world champion following. Ding slowly made his way in and shook hands with the challenger before sitting down. Both gladiators adjusted their chairs and pieces to settle in for the lengthy battle.

The cordial handshake before game 7

With everyone in place at 3:00pm sharp, Maurice Ashley welcomed all the fans and guests to game seven with much fanfare. He then introduced each player individually where fans cheered loudly, the only time noise could be heard slightly in the "cube". As per tradition, a special guest was introduced to make the ceremonial first move. Today was Mr. Edwin Tong, Minister for Culture, Community & Youth of Singapore. He played 1.d4 for Gukesh and smiled for the cameras, but the challenger had something else in mind. Gukesh placed the pawn back home and instead grabbed the steed and played 1.Nf3 to start game seven.

Mr. Edwin Tong making the ceremonial first move

It is a surreal moment to be onstage next to the biggest game in the world of chess. I imagine and compare it to being onstage of a big rock band concert except the fans become exceptionally quiet after the start. Through the lens I see the players up close in thought and try to catch the moments as best I can. After capturing many photos which seemed to happen in a blink of an eye, we were all whisked away off stage. Most went back to the media room to start editing their work but I detoured to the viewing hall to capture the feel on the other side of the glass. It was like a darkened theater with fans watching their favorite movie. While there was only slow and controlled action on the "screen", each movement of the player and piece was analyzed in great depth by all in attendance.

Game 7 is underway

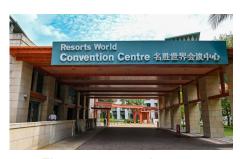

A full house on the other side of the glass

During the game there was plenty to do in the fan zone in addition to following the game itself. Many were playing chess themselves or trying to work out the next move of the match over the board with friends. A bonus today was a Q & A session with famous streamers Eric Rosen & Nemo along with Ukrainian Grandmaster Anna Muzychuk. Afterwards they took time to sign autographs and take photos with fans.

Q & A with Eric Rosen, Anna Muzychuk and Nemo

Later in the evening, the game neared the 40-move time control. With only seconds left on his clock. Ding made an error with his move 40...Ke5 and looked as though he let the draw slip away. But things are never easy at this level and Gukesh could not find the win. A draw was agreed after 72 moves and the players made their way to the press conference. This was interesting as the press conference was held a short distance from the hotel in the convention center nearby. Two vans were staged outside the hotel to take the players over to the press conference. Some attuned fans would line up to try and catch a glimpse of the players exiting but security was tight. Other fans lined up and waited on the other end at the convention center. A bus was available for the media but many of us would just make the quick run outside down the road as long as it wasn't raining.

The entrance to the press conference and Singapore International Open

I was able to arrive before the players and watch each entourage come down the escalator to the private room that held the conference. Fans lined up outside the room in the lobby in an orderly fashion for afterwards. All the media gathered inside as the players were brought up onto the stage along with the moderator Maurice Ashley. Family and parents of the players were there along with some of their teams. With cameras ready he opened up with his own questions and comments for the players.

The players take questions

Afterwards he opened up the floor to questions from the media which were lined up along the wall. After so many questions the line had to be cut off as it was a long day for the players, but not over as fans awaited outside the room. Chess.com's Mike Klein first caught the players as soon as they exited to give a quick interview. Then the players made their way through the throng of fans trying to catch a selfie or autograph. Both players obliged the fans as best they could as they made their way back up to the vans waiting to take them back to the hotel after a long day.

We have reached the halfway point of the match, and we are still tied. Game eight had two special guests that made the unusual first two ceremonial moves. First to move was Mr. Kingston Kwek, founder of Academic Labs, a tournament sponsor. In response was Grandmaster Kevin Ming, CEO of the Singapore Chess Federation and eight-time Singapore National Champion. An intense game followed but a draw was agreed upon after 51 moves when neither player wanted to press on in a dangerous position.

During game eight, in the fan zone, a special event was held by Eric Rosen and Nemo. Both took turns playing fans in a blindfold blitz where each other made moves for one another. An incredible exhibition of chess skills by both. FIDE press officer Charlize van Zyl even showed up to interview Nemo as she played one of her blitz games blindfolded. As if playing blindfolded was not hard enough, the added distraction of answering questions during the game was impressive as she still went on to win the game. And then Eric showed his impressive memory skills by challenging a fan to a blindfold blitz "duck" chess game. Not easy for either as calling out the duck squares compounded the difficulty.

The Singapore International Open was taking place in the convention center during the match and concluded on the day of game nine. During the game, a trophy presentation for all the winners took place. Special guests helped hand out trophies including GM Anna Muzychuk, GM David Howell, GM Pavel Eljanov, and Filipino Grandmaster and friend of Bobby Fischer, Eugene Torre. Chinese Grandmaster Lu Shanglei won first place by half a point. All stayed around to take photos and talk with players and fans alike.

Afterwards, a 9-round Singapore International Blitz open took place with quite a lineup of strong players including former Women's World Champion Alexandra Kosteniuk. This was another fun event to cover as it provided a plethora of photo opportunities. Eight players reached the knockout stage and a young eighteen year old came out on top, GM Volodar Murzin. A few weeks later in New York, this young man made headlines by becoming the FIDE World Rapid Champion.

During game nine a special guest spoke in the fan zone. Friend and trainer of Garry Kasparov, GM Zurab Azmaiparashvili gave a talk and was assisted by Eric Rosen. I caught a short bit of it after taking photos at the start of the game. It was quite fascinating to hear stories from his vast knowledge of chess. Back to game nine where it steered into another draw and left only five games remaining. The next morning I traveled back home for a concert that was not to be missed as my wife was part of it. She then joined me in return to Singapore as we planned a vacation week during the final two games whether they were to take place or not. Game ten ended in a draw but game eleven was won by Gukesh. Under intense pressure, Ding Liren bounced back in game twelve with a victory as he did against lan Nepomniachtchi in game twelve of their match in the previous year. Tied again with two games left.

GM Zurab Azmaiparashvili speaks in the fan zone

I arrived back in time for the final two games and the excitement was at a crescendo. Tickets for the playing hall were sold out once again as I believe they were for most games. Gukesh had the white pieces for game thirteen and FIDE President Arkady Dvorkavich made the ceremonial first move. Ding Liren seemed to be in slight trouble after eight moves and using nearly an hour off his clock while Gukesh had only used about one minute. He recomposed himself and was able to hold the draw after a long and arduous 68 moves. Tomorrow the world champion will have the white pieces for the final game. The chess world was abuzz with predictions on the final game. Most people expected the match to go into tie-breaks once again.

An intense game 13 ended in a draw

The final day I made sure to arrive plenty early to secure my ticket to be onstage for the finale. With my goldenticket wristband, I awaited our escort onto the big stage. I followed my media brethren through a large crowd on our way to the stage. As we approached the back corridor, I noticed the Chessbase India logo on the back of the tshirt in front of me as we were about to enter the door. It was reminiscent of the final walk on to the stage at the Toronto Candidates where I saw the same logo and Gukesh won that tournament. Deja vu? We huddled onstage for what could be the last time.

The final special guest to make the ceremonial first move was the President of the Singapore Chess Federation, IM Hsu Li Yang. Afterwards the players shook hands and game fourteen began. A well prepared Gukesh blitzed out his opening moves and both played accurately and carefully as the game went on late into the night. The media room was gearing up for tiebreaks as a draw looked imminent. I headed into the viewing hall where I joined my wife to watch the final moves of what appeared to be a draw. The room was full of fans trying to absorb every moment of the game. We sat and watched the screens with the moves highlighted and quietly discussed the drawish position.

The final game is underway

But then after Ding played move 55.Rf2 to exchange rooks, a bunch of whispers began to roll throughout the room. It soon became clear that Ding blundered as Gukesh got up from his seat and paced the room in disbelief. Ding sat at the board with his head in his hands realizing that the rook exchange now leads into a won endgame for black as his bishop is now forced off the board next. Gukesh sat back down and double checked and soon traded rooks and followed with 56...Bd5 to force the bishops off as well. After the second trade, Ding made his last move as the world champion and knew it, 58.Ke3. Gukesh responded 58...Ke5 with an extra pawn and the king's opposition. Knowing the inevitable, Ding stopped the clock and extended his hand to the new world champion!

The crowd watching the final game

Fans on the edge of their seats for the final moments

The hall exploded in cheers as Gukesh sat at the board in tears for a moment. He then got up and raised his hands in victory as he faced the crowd to relieve the three intensive weeks of emotions. Fans darted for the doors in order to get a chance to meet the new champion. The vans awaited for the players a final time and security kept fans at bay. Understandably, it took a little longer for the players to exit as emotions were no doubt high. Gukesh's father waited outside and was the first to hug him before getting into the van. Part of his team was there too, trainer Gregorz Gajewski and mental coach Paddy Upton. I ran ahead to the convention center for the final press conference where the crowds swelled in anticipation just as they had after he won the Candidates in Toronto eight months earlier.

A crowd follows the new champion to the final press conference

A mob of fans and media swarmed around the new champion as he tried to make his way down the escalator one last time. Fans were stopped short of the packed media room for the last press conference. Maurice opened up the last conference with his final words and then turned to Ding Liren who gave a few words. Gukesh then praised the now former world champion and spoke highly of his accomplishments and their intense match. The players got up and shook hands in respect and Ding Liren quietly exited the stage. Then the new world champion took many questions from the press who formed a long line. A very happy and jubilant Gukesh praised his many helpers throughout the match and glowed in the realization that he is now the youngest world champion at only eighteen years old.

After a long final press conference, fans lined up outside and waited for the door to open and reveal the new champion. Mike Klein was there first to catch a few words from a beaming Gukesh. Then with a seemingly endless sea of cameras and fans in tow, he slowly made his way to the exit. He was constantly stopped for a selfie or an autograph and he kindly took it all in stride. I have witnessed his sincerity to his fans numerous times now as he is a very humble champion. The escalator took the champion and his entourage up one final time with fans lining up along the stairs and all the way to his waiting van. Security was somehow able to maneuver the champion into the van where an incredible day finally ended.

The next day was the closing ceremony which was open to the public in the same viewing hall that was now transformed. Staff worked overnight to prepare the room by removing the glass cube stage and preparing a new stage and seating arrangement. Two huge screens flanked the stage and front rows of seating were reserved for family and VIPs. The back half of the room was roped off for public viewing which filled up quickly. Dignitaries slowly made their way in as well as the two hosts, Maurice Ashley and Charlize van Zyl, prepared onstage for the opening. With a packed crowd, the fanfare began. Music and national anthems were played and many special guests spoke. Ding Liren was first called up for recognition and presented with the runner up medal.

The new world champion was introduced next to a cheering crowd chanting "Gukesh". He was presented the winners medal along with the traditional laurels, tropical of course. Not to mention the prize money which amounts to the lion's share of the $2.5 million purse. Finally the champions trophy that he held high in the air in triumph as cannons of confetti launched and temporarily blinded the view of the world champion. A microphone was handed to Gukesh where he gave a heartfelt speech to family, friends and fans that helped him on this incredible journey showing the heart of a champion. With the ceremony officially over, people made their way out while Gukesh and his team stayed longer for more interviews.

Next door a VIP room was set up for a final farewell for many of those that helped make the tournament a success. Drinks and food were provided that allowed everyone to relax after a long three weeks of work. The team it takes behind the scenes to put on such an event is enormous. The technical aspects of broadcasting this around the world is no small task and FIDE did an incredible job. Singapore was an incredible host city and all the volunteers and staff were great. I was fortunate to attend four major FIDE tournaments in 2024 and was impressed with how well all were organized.

As I perused the room, I noticed Ding Liren and his family enjoying company and dinner in the back. They did not stay long and as they left, several people wished the former champion well. I did as well and spoke briefly with his parents, and learned why their interpreter was close by. He kindly took a photo of me and Ding Liren who seemed like a different person. Just an observation but he appeared to be almost relieved with the weight of the crown lifted from him. I then made my way around to say goodbye to some friends as I prepared to leave myself.

Fortunately, I stayed just long enough to see the late arrival of the new world champion. He was greeted by many friends and well-wishers as he finally had the chance to relax among the crowd. I congratulated the champion as well and spoke with him briefly on what an incredible year it had been. From Tata Steel at the start of the year, to the Candidates in Toronto, the Olympiad in Budapest, and now becoming the world champion in Singapore. What a privilege for me to have attended all of these to watch and photograph him. He has always been kind and giving of his time and now was no different. I only spoke with him for a moment, but he gave his full attention in a crowded room, a humble champion indeed. One final photo for the day was with the world champion Gukesh himself, no better way to end this incredible tournament.

A Legend "Retires"

By John Brezina

"Celebrating the Vision and Impact of Sunil Weeramantry" The NSCF Founder's Benefit Dinner March 11, 2025

It was last year that I first learned of this special event that was going to be held in New York to honor the founder of the National Scholastic Chess Foundation, Sunil Weeramantry. I have been privileged to know Sunil and call him a friend. His contributions to chess and teaching are only matched by his kindness and generosity. So, when I learned of the "retirement" dinner that was to honor his vision and impact on chess, I marked my calendar. This celebration was a once in a lifetime experience and I was further honored to not only be invited but asked to photograph the event.

Sunil Weeramantry before the start of the event

After 35 years as the Executive Director since his founding of the NSCF, Sunil is stepping aside to the Founding Director role. As of July 2024, Matan Prilleltensky took over as the Executive Director. To honor Sunil, the NSCF Board of Directors established the Sunil Weeramantry Legacy Fund to help continue chess education programs and held this reception and dinner. The board along with Asuka & Hikaru Nakamura headlined the event with other notable speakers as well.

It took place at the historic Harvard Club of New York in midtown Manhattan near Bryant Park and Grand Central. I arrived early in New York to explore the area and enjoy a clear sunny day around the city before the evening gala. The Harvard Club was established in 1865 and while unassuming from the outside, a step inside revealed an entirely new "old" world. It is an exclusive private club that required an invitation to enter along with a dress code that enhanced the elegance of the evening.

One of the stunning ballrooms inside

The evening began with a reception upstairs in one of the many elegant ballrooms of the club. The room was decorated with many tables that included chess boards that would later become magnets for attendees. Beautiful old woodwork enhanced the room along with portraits of distinguished members that adorned the walls. Several bars were in place with a professional black tie staff that prepared an array of cocktails and hors d'oeuvres while a piano player in the back of the room enhanced the ambience as people mingled. Volunteer staff greeted attendees and handed out name tags for the many distinguished guests.

The reception gallery being prepared

The room began to fill up quickly with many longtime friends and Sunil made his way around to greet them. Crowds soon began to surround the chess boards to watch the many blitz games taking place that included some of Sunil's current and past students. I made my way around the room to capture as many photos of the games and guests. While there are too many to mention, some notable guests included another longtime chess coach and author, Bruce Pandolfini. He has been a longtime friend of Sunil's, and they have both been chess teachers for over 45 years. He spoke at the dinner later in the evening as well.

Longtime friend and coach Bruce Pandolfini

Rick and his son Will Trepp of Rockport Group have been longtime sponsors and friends along with their family. It was fun to capture Will and his son playing chess as the game is passed on to another generation. US Chess was represented by President Kevin Pryor while director Tony Rich and manager Joy Bray of the St. Louis Chess Club were in attendance. Another longtime friend and benefactor to chess attending was John Rockefeller V (yes that Rockefeller). I was happy to see someone we all know from Colorado chess there too, coach and trainer Lior Lapid.

Hikaru Nakamura and his brother Asuka both arrived and received much attention. They made their way around the room and eventually to the chess boards. It looks like another chess player in the family as Asuka, his wife and young daughter kept a close eye on one of the kids' games. With a 13-time national champion father and an uncle Hikaru, she certainly has some good guidance. After many photos and autographs, Hikaru played a blitz game with the youngest Trepp. Quite a crowd gathered around to watch the number two player in the world do what he does best. Shortly afterwards the crowd was called to dinner downstairs.

A crowd watches Hikaru Nakamura play some blitz

It was hard to believe the night was just beginning as we all made our way down to the incredible dining hall. A beautiful high ceiling cathedral-like setting with stunning chandeliers and elegantly decorated tables that each seated ten guests. There was a stage with a podium that looked over the crowd that gathered where emotional testimonies would later be told. In the back was an old grand piano being played to add to the ambiance. As guests took their seats and became acquainted, waiters took orders for a delicious dinner. On the wall were two large projection screens that played slideshows and videos of the honored guest, Sunil Weeramantry.

A bird's eye view of the grand dining hall

Uncle Hikaru and Aunt Atousa with Asuka and their niece

The first to speak during dinner at the podium was Sunil's sister Ayoma. She has played an integral role at the NSCF and spoke kind words of her brother. I made my way around to photograph more people including the Mayor of Sunrise Florida, Michael Ryan. I first met him at one of his annual Mayors Chess Challenge community events. A model I wished more cities would follow: bringing city leaders, council members, police & fire departments all together to meet with their community constituents and kids over the chess board. I also came across the Grand Chess Tour spokesperson Michael Khodarkovsky who was recognized during the evening as well.

The Honorable Mayor of Sunrise Florida Michael Ryan flanked by friends

Later in the evening, the new Executive Director Matan Prilleltensky took the podium to introduce himself and praise the man he is taking over for. He is a National Master with many years of teaching experience and successful students. Next up were the two step-sons of Sunil Weeramantry. First the elder brother Asuka Nakamura took the stage and spoke of his step-father's career. Asuka is an incredibly strong chess player in his own right and is now very successful in the financial world. Younger brother and more well known chess player Hikaru Nakamura followed up with more kind words for the man that helped teach and nurture him into the successful player that he is today.

A short pause in speakers allowed the next phase of dinner to be served. I made my way around the room for more photos and caught up with Sunil as he greeted many attendees. We made our way back to his table where we gathered his family together for a full group photo. As the main course was served, longtime friend and fellow chess coach Bruce Pandolfini took the podium. Another legend that spoke of their early days and friendship and the incredible course that chess had taken them both. Next up was a former student of Sunil's and son of famed arbiter Carol Jarecki, John Jarecki. Another testimony to the man being honored this even-

And then to cap off the main course before dessert, the man of the hour himself took the stage to a standing ovation and cheers. He spoke of his long tenured career and thanked many of those that came along in his journey. A fitting tribute that the NSCF board setup a legacy fund in Sunil's honor to continue chess education that he helped pioneer. More speakers followed as dessert was served and awards presented to those that have contributed to the success of the foundation.

The evening ended with long goodbyes to friends and family. A surreal night in a stunning setting that I did not want to end. I stayed until the last moment to capture as much on "film" as I could. It was a whirlwind night for me as the time flew by and I was so focused on photographing the event. A group of us afterwards finally got to sit down together to relax and cap off a stellar evening.

Al Lawrence and Bruce Pandolfini say goodbye to their friend

Sunil's ties to Colorado chess go further back to my time knowing him as he has played in tournaments here many years ago. Most recent was the 2019 Denver Open where I had the honor to "sponsor" him. It was a memorable tournament as we had many other great players join us including his friend and Colorado hall of famer John Watson and Chess.com's Danny Rensch. It was the only time I have had the privilege to photograph him at the board. Sunil has returned several times since then to give lectures at the Parker Chess Club which was an absolute honor for the Colorado chess community and myself.

Sunil gives a lecture at the Parker Chess Club in July 2022

I titled this A Legend "Retires", but it is only one hat that this man is taking off. He still wears many other hats, and the chess world is the fortunate beneficiary of this. Chess is in the blood and being of this kind and generous man. I cannot envision him slowing down when his articulate voice and knowledge are so important in chess education and needed in our modern digital age. The future of chess is better with Sunil in it and I look forward to his next adventures and perhaps a return to Colorado...

SACRIFICING THE LADY

By NM Todd Bardwick

(Reprinted with permission of the Author, the United States Chess Federation & Chess Life magazine.)

The most powerful and coveted piece on the chessboard is the queen. Losing her strikes fear into the heart of the beginner player.

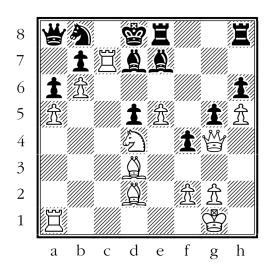

Whereas material is important in chess, king safety is, ultimately, the most important factor to consider.

When attacking the opponent's king, all checks and sacrifices are candidate moves, because checkmate is the goal.

To safely sacrifice a piece, you should either see a forced checkmate, find a way to regain the sacrificed material, or gain some other advantage to justify the sacrifice. Giving up your lady is the ultimate sacrifice and when it works, creates the beauty in chess.

This position occurred in Kristianstad, Sweeden, in 1922.

Hakansson

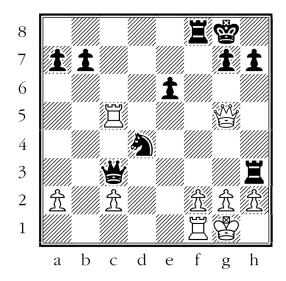

Nimzowitsch
Position after 26...ex(N)d5

Picking up the clues, material is even; but White has more space and a huge advantage in king safety and piece activity. He senses that the end is near and looks at all checks and sacrifices. Nimzowitsch plays 27.Qxd7+! and after 27...Nxd7 28.Ne6 is checkmate.

Here what many people consider the most brilliant chess move and queen sacrifice of all time by Frank Marshall from a game in Breslau in 1912.

Frank Marshall

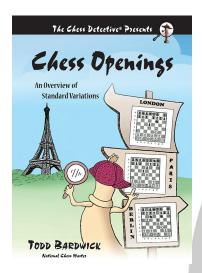

Stefan Levitsky

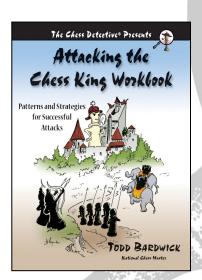

Position after 23.Rc5

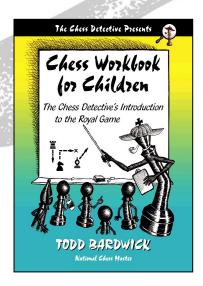

23...Qg3!! 24.Resigns Black threatens 24...Qxh2 mate and offers the queen three (!) different ways. Here are the possible variations for White: 24.hxg3 Ne2 mate; 24.fxg3 Ne2+ 25.Kh1 Rxf1 mate; or 24.Qxg3 Ne2+ 25.Kh1 Nxg3+ 26.Kg1 Nxf1 27.gxh3 Nd2 and Black's knight escapes, resulting in an easily won endgame a piece ahead.

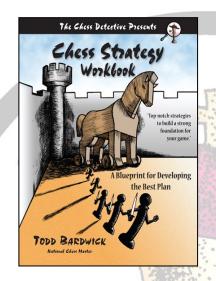

Remember, the ultimate sacrifice is your powerful queen and you should either find a forced checkmate or a winning position that justifies giving up your special lady.
