

To Whom It May Concern,

Health concerns led to a scaling back of operations at Mapple Farm in 2011. Since then, one measure taken to ease matters was the difficult decision not to apply for organic certification--the first time that happened in over 20 years. Over that period, Mapple Farm had OCIA, NOP and COR certification. Rest assured that we continue to maintain the same growing practices we've always followed.

Sincerely,
Greg Wingate
