

From Legalese to Semantic Deceptions

Where's the "Congressional Intent" Behind Acts Of Congress When Congress Doesn't Read The Law?

Original Publishing Date: December 31, 2012

Here's an excellent article entitled: "Learn the Language or Accept your Status as a Slave":

"... The meaning of the words in a law is ultimately decided by discovering the intent of the Congress when they drafted and enacted the law. The courts have ruled that the meaning of any law is not necessary what the law says in a strict reading of the words, but rather what the Congress intended to law to mean when they wrote those words. If Congress made a mistake in the language of the law, the laws means what Congress intended, not what Congress expressly wrote.

But we know that Congress routinely refuses to even read the laws that they vote to enact. Not one Congressman read the Patriot Act before they voted for it. How many read ObamaCare before they voted for it?"[1]

The "language" is know as legalese.

Free Yourself From All Semantic Deceptions of Government!

Every word in written law has a legal meaning that often differs from the meaning of the word when used in non-legal contexts.

Original Publishing Date: January 21, 2016 -

I'd like to add additional understanding in response to a letter that was published in the Winter 2015 edition of Wise Traditions.

The letter mentions "fraud".

Fraud, as in — 'Actionable Fraud' Consists of material representation made with knowledge of falsity and reliance thereon causing injury. — The elements of actionable fraud are: (1) Representation; (2) its falsity; (3) its materiality; (4) speaker's knowledge of its falsity or ignorance of its truth; (5) intent that it should be acted upon; (6) hearer's ignorance of its falsity; (7) his reliance on its truth; (8) his right to rely thereon, and (9) his consequent and proximate injury.[9]

I believe it would be helpful to the readers if the letter writer would be willing to show how these nine elements of fraud apply to the “facts” as he states in regard to the apparent demand that compels parents to “sign off on the birth certificate”. People need to understand the “facts” as they apply to written law so that they can better fulfill their “primary obligation (as) a citizen ... to question authority”![7]

For all those who doubt the use/misuse of the birth certificate to obfuscate the true status of a native born American there is the earlier and thus longer-standing use/misuse of the document known as “the Constitution” with extensive examples of semantic deceit. Our conventional wisdom on the Constitution came by way of government education, one that is full of “smoke and mirrors” regarding the true nature of this document resulting with the American people never getting to see this document in its right relation to the other three Organic Laws. The truly severe consequence is a lack of context in the Law and it is followed by massive confusion regarding how to apply “Constitutional law”. The only way out of this confusion is by including the vital help of true orientation in Law that only comes in light of the other three Organic Laws: The Declaration of Independence, The Articles of Confederation and The Ordinance for the Northwest Territory.

Dr. Ed Rivera is the lead professor in the Organic Laws and has trail-blazed all the way through the confusion of the “Constitution” bringing the greatly needed clarity into each and every one of its semantic deceptions.

The first Organic Law is the Declaration of Independence - that leaves us free! You can't write external law for a truly free people because they live under the Common Law just as the American people originally did - living very well without the interference (and all else) of any external government.

Then the Articles of Confederation (AoC) as the second Organic Law established The United States of America to be the Sovereignty of the territories that were gained from Great Britain after the Revolutionary War at the Treaty of Paris.

The third Organic Law is the Ordinance for the Northwest Territory that concerns all the territories that came in after the AoC to corral those territories into additional surveyed lands that constitute thirty-seven new states. This Ordinance was created July 13th, 1787 as a "temporary government" for the territories. The Constitution as the fourth Organic Law is completed just several weeks later on September 17th as the permanent government) - so close that you have to consider the connection, the continuity between these two documents so that when you read the Constitution you apply it to the territories instead of the thirteen states as the government would have you believe!

Ed Rivera founded the Organic Laws Institute to teach people how to read the constitution so that all four documents fit together. Then you can see how free people are not subject to the legislation of an external government as the people of the territories are. Free people are subject only to the Common Law. All four Organic Laws are still in force and you can find them at the very beginning of the United States Code!

Government was created for the territories because the territories don't belong to those who live in the territories, it is the property of the government. The Confederation was set up to act as the legal central government for the states. The states can't individually own the territories. So the government is doing it's job – we just need to understand the limits of its jurisdiction which is relatively easy to do because it is all proprietary-based. However, government extended its jurisdiction via citizenship.

“[A]t the Revolution, the sovereignty devolved on the people, and they are truly the sovereigns of the country, but they are sovereigns without subjects . . . and have none to govern but themselves; the citizens of America are equal as fellow citizens, and as joint tenants in the sovereignty.” Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 US 419, 471 (1793).

After the Civil War people voluntarily surrendered their “joint tenancy in the sovereignty” when they accepted citizenship into “the United States”. [10] For over the past century the government has assumed the American people have “surrendered” by the fact that they claim the legislated status [8] to be a “United States citizen” in the many government offers that are made to them. It's an error to think you were born in the United States when actually you were born on the land in one of the United States of America.

To free yourself from the semantic deceptions you will need to get clear on the words used in written law. Major distinctions need to be made between legal terms and phrases starting with: “United States” vs “United States of America”. Once you get clear about the distinction you can understand how there is an office of: “President of the United States” [4] that is distinguished from: “President of the United States of America” [5] (not to mention an additional “Office of President” [6]). Words and word phrases in written law have their legal meaning that often differs from the meaning used in non-legal contexts.

In the prime example of “Presidents” the implications go far beyond the realm of semantics. I have blogged on this under the headline of: “Civilization in Transition” [14]

April 2, 2016 -

Some years ago I ordered a book (possibly through a book club) that I had hopes would be edifying for me. The title is "Why America Is Free - A History of the Founding of The American Republic". I found the book disappointing. However I did find two statements that I'd like the publisher to provide more information on.

On page 165 under The Virginia Plan: "When the states agreed to send delegates to Philadelphia, they did so for 'the sole and express purpose of revising the Articles of Confederation.' However, the very first proposal went far beyond those instructions. It proposed to scrap the articles of Confederation and write a totally new document upon which American government would be based." I'd like to know the original source of that proposal and who made the proposal.

On page 167 under Other Arguments: "Should there be one president or three?" Once again I'd like to know the source.

My main disappointment is with the claims that democracy was the new form of government. It simply is not at all true even though the myth as been perpetuated for about the past ninety years since Roosevelt ordered the Army Field Manuals out of circulation that at that time made clear distinctions between a democracy and a republican form of government.

April 15th 2016 -

Continuing - Just replied to a couple answers (to questions stated above) that were sent to me in response to my inquiry. My reply included the following.

I appreciate seeing the Virginia Plan. Although it is clear that new proposal/s are presented I did not see a proposal to specifically "scrap the articles of Confederation" (in whatever terms). Would it be possible to point me directly to that proposal?

In the "Ordinance of 1787: The Northwest Territorial Government" at: "Article the Sixth" there is a repeal of "the resolutions of the 23rd of April, 1784" demonstrating that if it is the intention of the Congress to "scrap" legislation that intention gets clearly stated. I also find in the United States Code the inclusion of the Articles of Confederation as one of the four Organic Laws of The United States of America. The Articles don't appear to be scrapped to me.

Page 6 and 7 of your book make mention of democracy as the new form of government yet I do not see any source at all that expresses that as an intention by any of the "Founding Fathers". On the contrary I only see references to the Republic. What is the source for "democracy" as mentioned in the book?

The Degradation of Language -

"According to Steiner, it is characteristic of the present culture of Ahrimanic scientism and Anglo-American economic imperialism that language has lost its instinctive spiritual meaning; that is, the connection is lost between the literal word and the spiritual impulse that constitutes meaning.

Without real, spiritual content, language consists only of 'empty phrases', such as rule by the will of the people, the free world, individual freedom, and so on. These phrases are largely devoid of reality in our socio-political structure; here the pervasive actuality is the power of money over Men and over life. And where the empty phrase rules in language, mere conventions -- rather than living human contact -- rule in social life, and mere routine -- rather than lively human interest -- rules in economic life.

And: 'It is only a short step from the empty phrase to the lie.' Again, this is especially true in politics and economics, for the prevalence of empty words makes possible the falsification of realities -- a potent weapon in the hands of those with occult, conscious intentions to manipulate people for devious ends. In our time, people en masse act as if they are possessed by evil forces, because, in a way, they are.

The demons of materialism speak through empty words. A language in which the demons of materialism have taken the place of human spiritual impulses can lead only to destruction.

Certainly Steiner was not the only one to notice this aspect of modern language. George Orwell was perhaps the most prominent writer to decry this trend. See, for instance, his classic essay 'Politics and the English Language'. [29] He envisioned the dehumanization of language becoming deliberately intensified in the 'newspeak' of the Ahrimanic nightmare 1984. Having no apparent knowledge of spiritual science, and working with only keen observation and a love of truth, he saw what was happening in the political discourse of Western Europe and carried to extremes in the totalitarian regimes.

On the socio-political level, the antidote for this poison of empty words is the liberation of cultural life, especially education, from political and financial power. (As outlined in Steiner's concept of the 'threefold commonwealth': the separation of the political-rights state, the spiritual-cultural sphere, and the economic sector -- along with the elimination of egotism and coercion from the economy.)

On the individual-personal level, the antidote is the infusion of active, creative thought into language, thus creating a language in which the words point to the thoughts, evoking living thinking in the listeners. If we do not put effort into creating our original thoughts, then ready-made pseudo-thoughts, trite words and phrases, come automatically to mind and carry us along with them, resulting in 'thinking almost entirely without thoughts'.

We can at least make the effort to resist these ready-made phrases and generalizations that effortlessly come to mind, and to form mental pictures of particular people, things, and events -- and further, to make original word-formations describing these things and pictures from varying points of view. The essential point is that we not let our speaking and writing be determined by unconscious influences, but that we call forth through our own efforts new, original thought-creations and convey them with original, fluid, artistic word-formations.

We will not always fully succeed; we are not all poets all the time; but if we consciously make this effort, then we will go far toward recovering the lost human-spirituality of language, and consequently, toward the humanization of culture. ...

And, not incidentally, we will thus progress toward living consciously in the thinking-free-of-literal-words that is the 'language' of the spirit-soul world in which we will live after death. ..."[27]

February 6, 2015 - The original start of this blog:

Down yet another rabbit hole! I started out before having dinner searching the phrase "semantic deceit" as it appeared a key phrase in a couple of the papers that I was recently reading focused on semantic deceit in government. Then later while I was doing my dishes in the kitchen the phrase "deceived the nations" came into my consciousness and I made literal note of it with the intention to identify the verse in Revelation.

The verse:

"...For your merchants were the great men of the earth, for by your sorcery all the nations were deceived." —Revelation 18:23

Restated in modern English:

"...for your industrialists were the powerful men of the earth, for by your drugging and poisoning were all the nations deceived." — Revelation 18:23[34]

A major key is in the term sorcery.

"Sorceries - 5331[17]. pharmakeia

Transliteration: pharmakeia

the use of medicine, drugs or spells"[19]

Returning to my starting point with "semantic deceit" and now combining that with drugging and poisoning it is no wonder that all the nations have been deceived. Especially if you realize that the both methods are systemic through modern societies and include virtually all of our food (all the industrialized food) virtually all of our environments (certainly all the urban environments served by municipal water systems), the monetary system, government and their subsidiaries such as education, etc.

February 7th 2016 -

In a new research stream regarding by other blog Psyche & Health yet I have to note this here first:

"And when licentiousness and disease multiply in a city, are not many courts of law and dispensaries opened, and the arts of chicane and medicine give themselves airs when even free men in great numbers take them very seriously? . . . Will you be able to find a surer proof of an evil and shameful state of education in a city than the necessity of first-rate physicians and judges, not only for the base and mechanical, but for those who claim to have been bred in the fashion of free men? Do you not think it disgraceful and a notable mark of bad breeding to have to make use of a justice imported from others, who thus become your masters and judges, from lack of such qualities in yourself?" (Plato, Republic 405a-405b).[20]

So much relying upon the services of the so called "justice system" with so much hope that "justice" will be served, hope based on beliefs that judges are impartial. Is it possible for the system to truly serve justice when beliefs are based on an education system designed with "semantic deception"?

"... bad karma can be found by comparing 18 U.S.C. 1964(a) and 1964(c). Both statutes grant authority to issue remedies to restrain racketeering activities prohibited by 18 U.S.C. 1962. Section 1964(a) grants civil jurisdiction to issue injunctive relief to the DCUS[22]; Section 1964(c) grants civil jurisdiction to issue injunctive relief to the USDC[23]. Both refer to the exact same subject matter, namely, RICO (Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations) activities.

So, when these two statutes are otherwise identical, why did Congress need to enact two separate statutes?

The answer is simple: one authority was needed for the DCUS, and the other was needed for the USDC. Simple, really, when the sedition by syntax is explained in language which penetrates the deception."[24]

April 10, 2017 -

Although it's been going on a year since my last posting here that doesn't mean I stopped thinking about deceptions under the color of law.

Today I will underscore that deception is the nature of war. Consider Sun Tzu's "Art of War". The following are quotes from "Art of War" by Sun Tzu.

"All war is deception."

"All warfare is based on deception."

"All warfare is based on deception. Hence, when able to attack, we must seem unable; when using our forces, we must seem inactive; when we are near, we must make the enemy believe we are far away; when far away, we must make him believe we are near."

"All warfare is based on deception. There is no place where espionage is not used. Offer the enemy bait to lure him."[25]

My next research could be to give examples of deception as acts of war against the American people by the government.

April 25, 2017 -

The following is a serendipitous follow-up to where I left off on April 10th (immediately above).

"... there is (1) the actual United States composed of fifty (50) independent sovereign nation-states which are geographically defined, (2) the Territorial United States which only exists on paper composed of (57) fifty-seven incorporated 'States of States' such as the State of Washington, and (3) the Municipal United States which also exists only on paper composed of (57) fifty-seven incorporated 'STATES OF STATES' such as the 'STATE OF OHIO'.

Unfortunately, the perpetrators of this grand fraud were allowed to create these shadow 'states' via the loophole provided by Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 giving the Congress the plenary right to govern the District of Columbia. So they have. They set up shop for themselves in 1864 and have been operating as a crime syndicate ever since. They have played no end of semantic deceptions and made false claims against you and your assets (a process called 'hypothecating debt') and have indulged in constructive fraud and kidnapping and racketeering and inland piracy at your expense. ..."[26]

Semantic Deceptions permeate government (including the education system), all of banking, all of the legal realm, all of the medical industry, most corporations (especially big pharma, big Ag), and religious institutions. The first three were always infested with semantic deceptions. Medical wasn't as infested until Rockefeller. Corporations became infested in the 1800s. Religious institutions became infected when the "Church" began attacking the Gnostics and other unorthodoxies.

"The definition of 'good and evil', or 'light and dark', metaphysically can - from an esoteric perspective - be regarded as a dichotomy between those who seek a higher spiritual path for mankind, and those who seek to enchain man to matter.

This dichotomy is well portrayed in the standard depictions of 'The Devil' trump in the Tarot Major Arcana....

Paul Foster Case, founder of the Builders of the Adytum, gave a particularly apt explanation:

In its most general meanings, it signifies Mammon and thus big business, the conventions of society, the injustice and cruelty of a social order in which money takes the place of God, in which humanity is bestialized, in which war is engineered by greed masquerading as patriotism, in which fear is dominant."[28]

May 11th. 2017 -

"The supreme political authority in America is the American People (Declaration of Independence, Conclusion; Constitution, Preamble), referred to by the Supreme Court as 'joint tenants in the sovereignty'; to wit:

'[A]t the Revolution, the sovereignty devolved on the people, and they are truly the sovereigns of the country, but they are so without subjects . . . and have none to govern but themselves; the citizens of America are equal as fellow citizens, and as joint tenants in the sovereignty.' Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 419, 471 (1793).

The sovereign authority in the District of Columbia, however—as ordained by the American People (the 'Joint Tenants in the Sovereignty') in the Constitution (Article 1 § 8(17))—is Congress.

Whereas, there is no provision of the Constitution that authorizes Congress to legislate rules or regulations (statutes) against Joint Tenants in the Sovereignty, this is not so with residents of the District of Columbia—who are subject to any legislation Congress may impose on them.

To ensnare Joint Tenants in the Sovereignty in the banker-contrived artifice of income tax in behalf of their banker creditor, Congress enacted recondite[31] legislation that would foreclose Joint Tenants in the Sovereignty from fully comprehending the law, by transmuting certain everyday words into statutory terms with a convoluted or constitutionally opposite definition and meaning, and formulating statutes (and statutory definitions) using obscure rules of statutory construction to guarantee maximum complexity—thereby allowing Federal executive and judicial officers to operate within the 'letter of the law' and justify treating Joint Tenants in the Sovereignty as residents of the District of Columbia, but without having to explain what they are doing." [30]

In other words Congress enacts legislation as a "method used to deceive" the people! Title 26 is probably the best example of this!

The withholding of truth by ones who “knew it to be so simple that everyone can understand it. But at the same time they knew that they would not be capable of maintaining their undue influence; that they could not subjugate humanity unless truth were withheld. And these ideas, which for centuries and centuries have permeated our atmosphere, have obscured it to such an extent that poor humanity has forgotten that it possesses the faculty to pierce the veil and see the truth in all its simplicity, grandeur, and beauty. Lift the veil; let there be light, and everyone will recognize the truth!"[33]

June 17, 2017 - "Man has been reformed (by deceit) into believing in the false image of man (the human being).":

The spiritually discerned human is subject to strong delusion (deceit).

2 Th 2:10 - 2:11 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:

Man has been reformed (by deceit) into believing in the false image of man (the human being). These legal entities now serve man (the creature) more than the Creator.

Romans 1:25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

The Trap of Deception

Jeremiah 5: 26-27 For among my people are found wicked men: they lay wait, as he that setteth snares; they set a trap, they catch men. As a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: therefore they are become great, and waxen rich.[36]

June 22, 2017 - Make Clear What Cannot Be The Truth -

"9/11 cannot be and should not be underestimated. It is the justification for all the US wars that followed it. From a spiritual point of view, there are so many lies around it. Lies, from a spiritual point of view, paralyze consciousness. They cast a fog over consciousness. So it is a hygienic task of truth seekers to make clear what cannot be the truth, even if they can't find the full explanation."

Through fraud, manipulation, conspiracy, deceit and impersonation of law enforcement personnel, the IRS has become an "Organized Crime Syndicate" operating in every State of this union.:

[12] "History" depends on who wrote it. There is a contrast between American history as told by the U.S. government and that as seen through the Organic Laws and no one knows this better than Dr. Ed Rivera, a veteran attorney (who at one point oversaw three law firms in Los Angeles) who has postgraduate proficiency in original research in the four Organic Laws of the United States of America.

[29] "Clear Language Matters - Orwell stresses the need to fight against imprecise and unclear language. He offers an analogy: a man might get drunk because he thinks of himself as a failure. Then, because he is drunk, he fails even more. Orwell argues that the same thing happens to the English language and the intellects of those who speak it. The language becomes ugly and inaccurate because the thoughts of English speakers are similarly inaccurate and unclear. Once the language is muddled, it becomes easier for English speakers to have even more unclear thoughts. This vicious circle eats away at the political process and the ability of citizens to clearly understand and participate in it. A major argument of the essay is that correcting bad habits in language is the first step toward fixing the political process.":
