Representing individuals, families, and businesses since 1977, George Parker and the attorneys at The Parker Firm are litigators who understand the needs and objectives of their clients by putting them first. Attorneys George Parker, Danny Carl Garner, and J. Kermit Hill provide an array of representation and expertise, ranging from family law, collaborative family law, criminal defense, and personal injury cases. Working for justice in a civil manner, The Parker Firm applies tenacity and focus to a case, garnering the firm accolades of clients and the respect of their peers.

Managing attorney George Parker was named a “Super Lawyer” by Texas Monthly from 2003 to 2011 and honored in “The Best Lawyers in America” in 2009, 2010, and 2011. Mr. Parker says the key to success in the courtroom is to build a strong and candid relationship between the legal team and client.

“We try to educate clients about the realities of the law; how the law can help their family and achieve their goals, and negotiate the best choices for everyone involved,” says Parker. This ensures the most time-efficient and cost-effective legal representation possible.

The Parker Firm has expertise in collaborative family law, a creative and less-confrontational alternative to divorce and custody litigation in the courtroom and one that is growing in popularity. With its personal yet business-like approach, The Parker Firm has found itself very well suited for the practice of this type of law, says Mr. Parker.

“To give the best representation we understand the client’s needs and what they’re going through,” says Mr. Parker. “It’s in everyone’s best interest to find a rational and equitable solution based on the real needs of everyone involved.”

With an emphasis on cooperation and not competition, collaborative family law brings two litigants to the table, usually with a financial advisor and a communication facilitator. Then the parties work together to create a fair and workable settlement relating to child custody issues and property. The Parker Firm also works to arrive at a fair and just decision regarding a family’s most precious asset—the children and their means of financial support.

“Our firm considers the needs of children in what are often very difficult times,” says Mr. Parker. “It’s essential to keep some civility present in very difficult and emotional situations.”

Even more, this route enables litigants to have more of a say in the dissolution process and the possibility of less expense. Collaborative family law affords more privacy for families, and most importantly exposes adults and children to less stress and trauma.

Attorney George Parker graduated magna cum laude from North Texas State University before graduating from SMU School of Law. Attorney Danny Carl Garner is a graduate of UT Austin, North Texas State University, and South Texas Law College in Houston. Both are Board Certified in Family Law by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization. J. Kermit Hill graduated summa cum laude from UT Dallas and Baylor University School of Law.
