

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

American Orthodox Documentary Film Now Complete - Available for Church, School, and Seminary Screenings Nationwide

SACRAMENTO, CA – The much-anticipated documentary film American Orthodox is now complete. Following a heartfelt private premiere screening in Sacramento, attended by Orthodox clergy, parishioners, and family members, the film is now entering the festival circuit and is being made available for churches, schools, seminaries, and nonprofit groups interested in hosting a local screening.

Directed and executive produced by Robert John Hammond, American Orthodox is based on his acclaimed book of the same name - American Orthodox: Finding the Ancient Faith in the Modern World - available now on Amazon. The film tells a deeply personal and visually rich story of spiritual discovery, Orthodox saints, sacred places, and the living tradition of the ancient Christian faith on American soil.

The film's Director of Photography is Silas Karbo, award-winning producer and co-creator of Sacred Alaska, whose visual storytelling brings the American Orthodox journey to life with reverence and cinematic beauty. Principal filming locations include Fort Ross, San Francisco, Jackson, Santa Rosa, Sacramento, and Calistoga.

Organizations interested in hosting a screening of American Orthodox are encouraged to contact the filmmaker directly at:

 AmericanOrthodoxFilm@gmail.com

About the Filmmaker

Robert John Hammond is the Executive Producer, Director, and author of multiple works including Light Journey: Saints, Miracles, and Sacred Places and Voice in the Wilderness: Reflections on the Life and Legacy of Father Seraphim Rose. He holds an MFA in Creative Writing, has taught graduate-level screenwriting, and has spent over a decade exploring the spiritual landscape of America through books and film. His work is known for blending powerful storytelling with deep reverence for tradition, beauty, and the human soul's journey to God.

For media inquiries, interviews, or festival information, please use the email address above. A press kit and preview screener are available upon request.

#AmericanOrthodoxFilm

Rediscovering Ancient Faith on American Soil