* Two city councils recanted their ordinances: (1) Omaha, Texas repealed their ordinance in exchange for a non-binding resolution on 10-14-19, after the ACLU filed an open records request. (2) Mason, Ohio repealed their ordinance on 12-13-21 after new leadership was elected to city council in the 11-02-21 election.

~ Instead of designating their city as a “Sanctuary City for the Unborn,” four cities (Gilmer, Big Spring, Muenster, and Big Sandy, Texas) have designated themselves as a “Safe Haven for the Unborn.”

© Twenty-One cities have passed ordinances including the abortion provisions found in the Comstock Act. (18 U.S.C. §§ 1461-1462).

^ Five cities (four in New Mexico and one in Illinois) have passed ordinances which do not explicitly outlaw abortion, but are considered de-facto abortion bans since the ordinances result in the same effect. The ordinances arrive at this same effect by requiring compliance with federal laws on abortion, specifically 18 U.S.C. §§ 1461-1462.

+, ++ Twenty-two cities contain provisions in their ordinances prohibiting abortion trafficking. While all cities with a plus sign contain a provision prohibiting the abortion trafficking of residents of their community, cities with two plus signs prohibit the abortion trafficking of both residents and of non-residents passing through their community.
