02 Grazing Standing Lupin Crops

Economic analysis of benefits from grazing unharvested standing lupin crops in a mixed farm enterprise in south-west WA:

- Weaned lambs grazing dry pastures and stubbles (Oct–Mar) often suffer poor growth and health without supplementation.
- Standing lupins offer a better alternative, with added benefits like nitrogen fixation and weed suppression.
- Grazing lupins improves whole-farm profitability by:
 - Increasing stocking rates
 - Enhancing lamb growth and sale prices
 - Improving feed efficiency
- Optimal lupin grazing area is ~7% of farm size.
- Benefits are consistent across varying prices, yields, and nitrogen levels.
- No negative impact on weaner survival or ewe lamb performance.
- Fits well into existing mixed farming systems.
