“Love one Another

As I have loved you”

Though I realize that not all of our Camp Family identify as “Followers of Christ” or “Christians”, surely the majority are .We love the Jewish members of the family, the Buddhist, members, and also those who are still seeking an identity, and surely ALL would agree that Jesus was and is possibly “The greatest Teacher of Truth ever,” He gave His ALL, indeed His very life for us, and all He asked in return was, “Love one another as I have loved you.” Are we doing that? When faced with a difficult decision about a relationship difficulty, do we ask, “What would Jesus do in this situation?” Had face book been around in Jesus’ time, do you think He’d be spewing hateful remarks to those who thought differently than He did? I kinda wish we’d have held on to the WWJD? (What would Jesus Do) phase we went through a few years back. Surely there would be fewer hurt feelings happening. I’d like to suggest we personally bring back WWJD? as a preface to all of our posts and replies.

Whatcha think?
