

Dean Snow (2011)

Vice President – 2011-2012

President – 2012-2013

June 8, 2011: Identifying the Prehistoric Artists of France and Spain

Sept 12, 2012: The Roots of Greek Science

Dec 11, 2013: American Revolution: Battles at Saratoga

Nov 11, 2015: What is Indian Law and why is it Different?

Sept 14, 2016: Veracity Redeemed: The Long Walk of David Ingram

Sept 12, 2018: David Ingra's Long Walk

Oct 11, 2023: The U.S. and the World Heritage Sites Program

Dean Snow received his BA from the University of Minnesota in 1962 and his PhD from the University of Oregon in 1966. He taught at the University of Maine for three years and at the University of Albany for twenty-six years, during which time he established and carried out archaeological research programs in highland Mexico, New England, New York and the British Isles. He is known for his research into the paleodemography of prehistoric populations in all of these areas. Snow moved to The Pennsylvania State University in 1995, where he served as Head of the Department of Anthropology for the following ten years. He served as president of the American Society for Ethnohistory in 1978-1979. He served as Chair of Section H (Anthropology) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science 1999-2000 and subsequently as secretary of Section H 2000-2006. In 2005 he was a Fellow at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, D.C. before returning to Penn State as Professor of Anthropology. He served as President of the Society for American Archaeology 2007-09. In recent years he has carried out research on human sexual dimorphism as expressed in hand stencils found in prehistoric art contexts in Europe and many other parts of the world. His recent writing has focused on a range of topics in archaeology and history. His 1777: Tipping Point at Saratoga was published in 2016, and a new edition of Archaeology of Native North America came out in 2019. His most recent book is The Extraordinary Journey of David Ingram, 2023.

Updated 2/1/2025