Where in the World...

Prior to European settlement, the Australian Aborigines developed a range of unique musical instruments, including the didgeridoo and clapsticks. These unique musical instruments were used in their traditional ceremonies. These instruments and their distinctive sounds are today incorporated with traditional music in a fusion of contemporary mainstream styles. They are performed by Australian indigenous artists such as Gurrumul yunupingu and yothu yindi. Some of the earliest music of Australia in our convict nation told of the hardships experienced by the first settlers and had it's celtic folk music. Songs such as "Bound for Botany Bay" described the period in the late 18th and 19th centuries when British convicts were decorated to the various Australian penal colonies.

What's Going on Here...

July The Town of North Hempstead will continue its drive-in movie series at town facilities for the summer. The program is expected to take place every Saturday and Sunday after sundown. Films will be projected onto large outdoor screens for residents to enjoy a night out, while also following social distancing protocols. While registration is free for these events, the town is encouraging attendees to bring non-perishable, canned foods to each showing as part of North Hempstead's donation drive. Residents are being asked to register their cars in advance by visiting NorthHempsteadNY.gov/drive-in or calling 311. Dates for movie showings can also be found on the town website.

The North Hempstead Beach is currently only open to town residents. There are no parking fees for the 2020 season. All visitors are asked to maintain social distancing guidelines and to wear a mask when possible.

How's it Possible...

On a really hot day at the beach, it is a good time to wear flip-flops. Flip-flops were worn by people all over the world starting in ancient Egypt in 1500 BC. After World War II, the United States descended the flip-flops from Japan. In the 1960s, flip-flops became a popular footwear statement. Flip flops were used by different materials worldwide. In Egypt, people used papyrus leaves which is unusual because people used papyrus leaves for writing. Most people wear flip-flops at the beach or pool side in the summertime. It's up to you what style flip-flops you like when it comes to your favorite colors or how you like them decorated.

When Did That Happen...

Did you know that some of our presidents were wrestlers? Abraham Lincoln was a wrestler before he became the president of the United States. Abraham Lincoln was born in 1809, in New Salem, Illinois. He was 6ft. and 4 inches tall. He once fought a local bully and became a wrestler with great skills. Wrestling already was an established sport among the Native Americans in the 15th and 16th Centuries, when the first Europeans began arriving on the North American continent. Lincoln was neither the first nor last president to enjoy success in the wrestling arena. George Washington was an accomplished grappler and master of the British style known as collar and elbow, while William Taft was a two-time undergraduate champ at Yale. Others also include Andrew Jackson, Ulysses S. Grant, and Theodore Roosevelt.

That's Incredible!

The longest chain of fireworks consists of 10,005 fireworks and was achieved by Viejas Casino & Resort in Alpine, California on September 12, 2014. The festivities were kicked off with a line of sparklers being lit in succession one after the other from the previous one. 299 participants handed off the ignition to each other. The final one lit off the fireworks part by igniting a line rocket that carried the ignition to the hotel roof for a roof display. We may have China to thank for the electrifying invention of fireworks, but few countries can create as big a bang as the U.S. thanks to the amount of pyrotechnics used during this Independence Day celebrations.

The Town of North Hempstead Animal Shelter

Myrtle came to the shelter as a stray in February of this year. She is a typical, high energy German Shepherd that is seeking an active family that can keep up with her. Myrtle can be hesitant when she meets new people but with patience and a few treats she warms up quickly. After taking her for a few walks, throwing the tennis ball, and giving her a back scratch you will have a loyal friend for life! She enjoys the company of canine companions primarily a dog that is similar in size, energy, and play style.
