Where in the World...

Australia is known for having interesting food to eat. One cuisine that is very popular in Australia is Fairy Bread. Fairy bread consists of white bread cut into triangles. It is then covered with butter spread on top, and coated with multi-colored round hundreds and thousands, the Australian term for sprinkles. The invention of fairy bread dates back to the year 1920. The recipe was mentioned in Australia’s, “The Hobart Mercury” newspaper. The article describes children eating fairy bread at a party. Since then, fairy bread has become popular at children’s birthday parties and events in both Australia and New Zealand. The next time you have a birthday party, try adding fairy bread to the menu!

How’s it Possible...

The hit show Pokemon was introduced to the USA on September 6, 1998. The creator of the show is Satoshi Tajiri who also has autism. The idea of the show came from a hobby he had as a child in which he would catch bugs around his neighborhood. His childhood friends decided to call him Dr. Bug for catching so many bugs. From there, the foundation of the show was created. Pokemon first began as a Japanese video game and later became a card game. It has now turned into the longest running television show based on a video game. The Pokemon mascot Pikachu has become one of the most successful characters since Mickey Mouse.

When Did That Happen...

Did you know that Bermuda’s pink sand is caused by tiny red organisms that grow beneath the coral reefs just off the shore? When those organisms fall to the ocean floor, they connect to bits of coral and crushed shell. Once combined, they are washed onto the beach and make the sand appear as an amazing shade of pink. Over time, the pink sand gets pushed up to the beach by the pounding of waves. Finally, the sun hits the sand and the UV rays bleaches the color.
