Evening devotions: Don Cannan's shot of a lone fisherman at sunset, is the Goolwa Camera Club's new, official letterhead logo.

The Goolwa Camera Club is set to relaunch for 2020 on Wednesday February 12 and is looking "outside the square" through a new show and tell segment, designed to allow members who are not interested in competitions to display their work and discuss it with others in a non-competitive atmosphere.

Proceedings for the new year will kick off at the Scout Hall, Daniel Avenue Goolwa North with the normal program of a workshop at 11am, lunch at 12 and competitions at 1pm.

The move to full day meetings with a social lunch period has proved to be a success and the new show and tell venture is the second project aimed at giving the club a point of difference.

A club spokesperson said "photography was all about recording a moment in time," which was perfectly achieved through member Don Cannan's shot of a lone fisherman at sunset (pictured) entitled Evening Devotions, which the club has now chosen to use as its official letterhead logo.

The club encourages members to "look at life around us, to use our imagination and record the unusual," said the spokesperson.

"Don's self portrait (another of his works) is a wonderful example of a camera being used as a tool to create a different work of art and experienced club members are happy to assist newcomers explore this interesting world."

Members, new and current, are invited to bring along two prints and/or two digital images for display and discussion.
