APRIL 26TH

WELCOME TO MENDED INC.'S FIRST ANNUAL FUNDRAISER MIXER !

As the Board Chair, it brings me immense joy to stand in this moment celebrating the mission, the movement, and the meaningful work that Mended Inc. Foundation represents. Tonight is more than a fundraiser, it's a declaration of purpose. It's a celebration of healing, transformation, and the power of community.

Mended Inc. was born from a deep commitment to helping women and families, especially mothers and daughters, heal generational wounds and rewrite their stories. As someone personally passionate about the restoration of mother-daughter relationships, I know the ripple effect that healing can have not just within families, but across entire communities.

Our Board of Directors is a dedicated group of leaders who believe in this work wholeheartedly. Together, we've set bold goals: to expand our reach, enhance our trauma-informed programming, and build strong systems that support long-term impact. We are laying the foundation for growth, with a vision that includes wraparound services, increased partnerships, and a greater presence in the lives of those who need it most.

The transformative work of Mended Inc. is just beginning. And tonight, your presence, your belief, and your generosity are helping us build a future where cycles are broken, wholeness is possible, and healing is generational.

Thank you for walking with us. Thank you for believing in the work. And thank you for helping us move forward with compassion, with courage, and with an unshakable commitment to change.

With deep gratitude,
Aziah Kado
Board Chair, Mended Inc. Foundation

A LETTER FROM OUR FOUNDER

Dear Family,

Yes—I said family—because if you're reading this program, you're already a part of our sacred village. You being here tonight means the world to us. This is our first-ever annual 50 Shades of Pink Fundraiser and let me just say: it's not just a cute name. It represents the full spectrum of emotion, story, struggle, and healing that exists inside mother-adult daughter relationships. And if nobody told you before now—yes, those relationships deserve their own fundraiser. Because friend, they are quite complex.

Mended Inc. was born from my personal story. My mother and I didn't always speak the same emotional language. In fact, for a while, we weren't even in the same book. But God has a way of bringing things full circle. Through healing, forgiveness, therapy, prayer, and a whole lot of uncomfortable conversations—we are finding our way back to each other. And I used everything I learned to break the cycle with my own daughter. That's when I knew this work wasn't just personal—it was purposeful, generational.

Since our official launch in 2017, we've been refining programs, holding space, and helping women do what many believed was impossible—repair their relationship with their mom or daughter. Our mission is clear: to become the premier national network for adult mother-daughter healing and support.

But let's be real—healing doesn't happen in a vacuum. It takes resources, tools, and community. That's where you come in.

Tonight, I'm inviting you to partner with us. Not just financially (although yes, we love a good donation), but emotionally. Spiritually. Practically. Help us coach more women. Help us host more groups. Help us create a world where daughters don't have to grieve a relationship that's still alive.

And while mother-daughter healing will always be our first love and top priority, I'll let you in on a little secret: there's more coming. Mended is expanding. New chapters of healing are on the horizon. So, stay close. Stay connected. And stay ready.

Thank you for being here—for seeing us, supporting us, and believing in the power of reconciliation.

With deep gratitude,

Tierra Banks

The Impact of Healing Out loud

We're Reducing Stress

When the mother-daughter bond is broken, it fractures confidence, trust, and emotional safety. Studies show that strained mother-daughter relationships are among the most commonly reported sources of long-term emotional distress in women, and Mended is repairing these relationships—one conversation, one coaching session, and one courageous woman at a time.

Innovation as Interventions

With over 1 in 4 women experiencing emotional estrangement from their mother at some point in adulthood, Mended's programs like the Motherless Day Brunch and SEEN offer innovative, research-informed spaces for healing. We're addressing generational pain through creative interventions that foster connection, restore identity, and shift family legacies.
