Rise up my sons and daughters!

Don the white hats and take your finger tips to war.

We ride to the battlefield upon which the battalions of black hats await us. It is time for your inner children to stand up and be counted. Time to come out of those bunkers and use your minds in actively constructive ways. Time to cast away the hours in useless pursuit, of watching the television and playing video games.

It is time to join the crusade against evil and to take up your computers to wage war against those who would steal your freedom and threaten the future of mankind.

Be not afraid of standing with us friends.
