

How is A Maven Maid prepared for COVID-19?

From Our Cleaning Family to Yours

There has been a lot of scare with the Novel Coronavirus-19. According to WHO (World Health Organization), influenza saw an estimated 5 million cases in 2019 with approximately 650 thousand related deaths (13 %). Currently, the Covid-19 (3/13/2020) has seen 145,003 cases and 5,411 deaths (3.7%). Hand washing is the #1 recommended prevention.

We continue to closely monitor the potential impact of Coronavirus (COVID-19) on the communities that we serve. Our trained cleaning technicians will continue to clean and disinfect the community facilities that we service, following CDC recommendations.

Understanding the difference between cleaning and disinfecting

Cleaning refers to the removal of dirt and impurities from surfaces. But cleaning alone does not kill germs and viruses.

Disinfecting works by using chemicals to kill germs and viruses on surfaces. Most disinfectants do not clean dirty surfaces, so they must be cleaned first. By killing germs and viruses remaining on a surface after cleaning greatly reduces the risk of spreading infection.

Therefore, we provide a combination of both cleaning and disinfecting as a part of our cleaning services available.

As with the flu epidemic, we are already cleaning more frequently, common areas and touchpoints (doorknobs, tabletops, countertops, etc.). Typically, we recommend a combination of cleaning and disinfecting when cleaning a home

Disinfecting the less frequently used areas

In addition, we are increasing our cleaning and disinfecting efforts to include the less frequently used areas in addition to the high touch areas. Our trained staff are using products that meet the criteria of the EPA specifically for use against the coronavirus.

Upon request we can use electrostatic sprayers to disinfect your home. Our sprayers easily spread the disinfectant from ceiling to floor with only a short wait time before anyone is allowed back into the room. This will ensure a safe, affordable, and highly effective approach to cleaning.
