

Originally from Durban, Ntobeko moved to Cape Town to study Art Direction at the AAA school of advertising and spends most of his days coming up with funny ideas at an international ad agency. From 2018, he started spending his nights doing stand up comedy. Within 6 months of starting stand-up at the iconic Armchair Theatre in 2018, Ntobeko won 2nd place at the Jive Funny Festival and was performing at the Cape Town Comedy Club (RIP) and the Jive Cape Town Funny festival. He even graced the famous Los Angeles Laugh Factory stage that same year. Since then he has starred in the Savanna Newcomers showcase on DSTV and toured SA with The Proudly Problematic Tour, including National Arts Festival, for the past two years. He's been called "such a funny dude" by close friends.

2025

"PHARANOID" one person show at National Arts Festival

Reached 14k Followers on TikTok

Debut one person show: 'PHARANOID' - 3x night run at Baxter Theatre

Guest Appearance on Espresso Morning Show

2024

Mr D Halloween Advert - Star

Launched "FUNNY PARTY" at iKhaya Lodge Cape Town

National Arts Festival - Proudly Problematic Comedy Show

The Problematic Tour - Gqeberha

Cape Town TV - Performance and interview

2023

Woordfees Festival - Savanna Stage

Savanna Newcomer Showcase

Me Channel 115 showcase

Rising Stars of Stand Up - Protea Hotel

National Arts Festival - Proudly Problematic Comedy Show

National Arts Festival - Sundown concert host

2020

Cactus Comedy Club (webseries)

2018 - 2019

Armchair Theatre and various open mics

Cape Town Comedy Club Jive competition (Second Place winner)

Jive Cape Town Funny Festival (2 weeks, nightly)

LA Laugh Factory