

Authorized Community Rehabilitation Program (CRP) provider serving adults and transition-age job seekers

LaunchPad

Individual Services for your participants

We're a new DVR-contracted Community Rehabilitation Provider specializing in pre-employment transition services for justice-involved participants. Once we accept a referral, we contact the customer within two business days. We provide weekly updates, offer on-the-job coaching, and support the participant. We look forward to partnering with DVR, school teams, and other local organizations to ensure our services align with the needs of both our customers and local employers.

JOB RETENTION

Regular check-ins with participant and employer to support 90-day stabilization and natural supports.

JOB COACHING

Side-by-side skills training with a written plan; fade supports toward independence.

1

CAREER ASSESSMENT

Identify strengths, interests, pace, and supports in real settings.

2

TRIAL WORK EXPERIENCE

Short trials of essential tasks to test feasibility.

3

JOB PLACEMENT

Job development, interview prep, employer outreach, and CIE match.

Learn skills. Try jobs. Earn wages.

KJ Jones is a newly authorized Community Rehabilitation Provider (CRP) serving adults and transition-age youth with disabilities—including young people navigating reentry or other systemic barriers. We bring a practical, trauma-informed approach to employment services, with a strong focus on justice-involved youth.

As a new provider, we're building our systems thoughtfully and learning DVR processes with care. Our goal is to contact the participant within 2 business days of referral and IPE confirmation, then provide weekly updates that are short, clear, and tied to IPE goals and authorized services.

We use real-world, situational assessments to understand strengths, pace, and support needs—then shape the service plan accordingly. Our approach honors informed choice at every step: participants set the direction, and we support the decision-making process. Documentation is clean and aligned to RSA-911 standards: dates, activities, outcomes, and clear linkage to the Fee Schedule.

We're also focused on cultural and reentry competence—building a network of reentry-friendly employers, using plain-talk materials, and working one-on-one to help participants navigate barriers like training gaps, legal history, or transportation. Our coaching approach draws from tools like Mobility Mentoring® and the Employment & Education Transition Framework to support both short-term progress and long-term goals.

We may be new, but we're committed to showing up with care, accountability, and a deep respect for the young people we serve—and for the VRCs who partner with us.

A LITTLE ABOUT ME

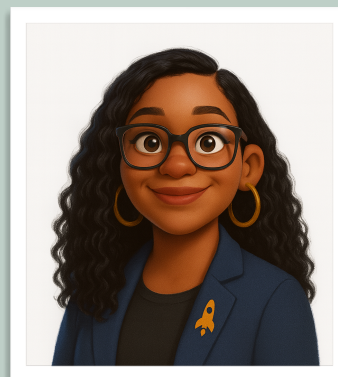

Hello! My name is Kendra Jones, and I'm the founder of KJ Jones Consulting. With over a decade of experience, I'm dedicated to supporting youth workforce and reentry initiatives.

My favorite part of this work is connecting with people and organizations. I truly enjoy learning and collaborating with new teams to craft individualized employment plans. Many of the services my team provides utilize evidence-based models recognized in Washington State, such as Empath's Mobility Mentoring and the Employment and Education Transition Framework.

The landscape of careers is constantly evolving, and so is the field of workforce development. My team stays on top of the latest practices so we can best serve families, together.

If you're interested in partnering up, I'd be happy to schedule a meeting or lunch. You're also welcome to join my virtual open office hours. I look forward to connecting with you soon!
