Dear all,

Please see below for upcoming events and opportunities which may be of interest to you.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- 1. 'Deterring Coercive Information Operations' with Paul Stockton
- 2. 'Need to Know X' Conference
- 3. 'The Evolution of British Army Intelligence Doctrine' with Ben Hodges
- 4. 'Propaganda Stamps and Espionage Currency' with Ken Pugh
- 5. 'Dark Persuasion' with Joel Dimsdale
- 6. 'Challenges and Prospects in Intelligence Analysis' with Joseph Gartin
- 7. A Conversation with Chris Inglis, National Cyber Director
- 8. 'Virtual Spy Chat' with Javed Ali
- 9. 'John Le Carre: Writing and Researching Elusive Subjects' with Adam Sisman
- 10. 'Buckinghamshire Spies and Subversives' with D.J. Kelly
- 11. 'A Stranger Within: Diversity and Identity in Canadian Intelligence' with Huda Mukbil
- 12. Oxford Intelligence Group
- 13. Cambridge Intelligence Seminar
- 14. The International Security and Intelligence Program (ISI) Cambridge
- 15. The 2022 NASIH Conference
- 16. The Zagreb Security Forum

EVENTS

1. 'Deterring Coercive Information Operations' with Paul Stockton

16 November King's College London Online

KISG is hosting former US Assistant Secretary of Defense, Dr Paul Stockton, who will discuss the US's ability to deter coercive information operations and cyberattacks. He argues that the US should pursue two complementary strategies to help deter adversaries from using information operations and cyberattacks to coerce US and NATO decision-making in future crises. This presentation will explore how new US and allied information warfare initiatives can strengthen both forms of deterrence.

As Assistant Secretary of Defense for Homeland Defense and Americas' Security Affairs from 2009-2013, Dr. Stockton led the development of DOD's Strategy for Mission Assurance, guided Defense support to civil authorities in Superstorm Sandy and other disasters, and deepened US security partnerships with Canada, Mexico, and other Western Hemisphere nations.

More details here

2. 'Need to Know X' Conference

25-26 November King's College London Online

By definition a secret activity, intelligence is still a normal part of public life. Throughout history, governments, political parties, and private interests have sought secret intelligence for advantage.

The 'Need to Know' conferences aim to stimulate research and discussions about the history of intelligence, with a special focus on the Cold War and new information from the opening of archives.

This year's conference explores the intelligence legacy of World War II and the manner in which secret organisations adapted to the tensions of the early Cold War contest between East and West.

More details here

3. 'The Evolution of British Army Intelligence Doctrine' with Ben Hodges

10 November University of Northampton Online

Drawing from the content of the first chapter of a PhD thesis that seeks to understand the nature of operational intelligence in the British Army during the interwar period, this seminar will show how intelligence theory developed alongside operational doctrine to become an integral part of how the army prepared to fight a major foe in 1939.

More details here

4. 'Propaganda Stamps and Espionage Currency' with Ken Pugh

12 November British Empire Study Group Online

Hear stories about economic espionage, spying, propaganda, conspiracy and murder during and after WWII from Ken Pugh, retired grade school teacher and author of 32 references on BNA forgeries.

More details here

5. 'Dark Persuasion' with Joel Dimsdale

16 November The International Spy Museum Online

Call it what you will--coercive persuasion, thought control, dark persuasion, or brainwashing—techniques to control thoughts and minds blossomed during the 20th century and with advances in neuroscience and social media new avenues for manipulation have emerged. Dimsdale has sought the origins of coercive persuasion in the tortures of the past and shows how Pavlov's scientific approaches to behaviour were embraced by Lenin and Stalin setting the stage for major breakthroughs in techniques of social, political, and religious control.

More details here

6. 'Challenges and Prospects in Intelligence Analysis' with Joseph Gartin

17 November Johns Hopkins University Online

A conversation with Joseph Gartin, managing editor of Studies in Intelligence. Gartin is a national security professional with more than 30 years of experience in the U.S. Intelligence Community. He recently retired from the CIA as deputy associate director of CIA for talent and chief learning officer, overseeing learning and development programs for its global workforce. His previous assignments include dean of the Sherman Kent School for Intelligence Analysis, vice chairman of the National Intelligence Council, and director of the President's Daily Briefing.

More details here

7. A Conversation with Chris Inglis, National Cyber Director

17 November Michael V. Hayden Center Online

The White House Office of the National Cyber Director is only a few months old but faces immense challenges. Still staffing up and only now receiving funding in the just-passed infrastructure bill, the threats the office was established to protect the nation from are metastasizing.

Confirmed by the Senate in July, Chris Inglis has enjoyed a distinguished national security career. He served in the U.S. Air Force and Air National Guard from 1976 to 2006, rising to the rank of brigadier general. His 28-year career at the National Security Agency culminated in a 7 ½-year run as its deputy director. Michael Morell, former acting and deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, will host the conversation.

More details here

8. 'Virtual Spy Chat' with Javed Ali

18 November The International Spy Museum Online

Join us for an online discussion of the latest intelligence, national security, and terrorism issues in the news. Spy Museum Executive Director Chris Costa will be joined by Javed Ali former Senior Director for Counterterrorism, National Security Council.

Ali is an associate professor of practice at the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy where he draws on his more than 20 years of professional experience in national security and intelligence issues in Washington DC. He worked for the Defense Intelligence Agency and the Department of Homeland Security before joining the Federal Bureau of Investigation, where he held senior roles on joint duty assignments at the National Intelligence Council and the National Counterterrorism Center.

More details here

9. 'John Le Carre: Writing and Researching Elusive Subjects' with Adam Sisman

24 November South West Doctoral Training Partneship Online

David John Moore Cornwell, aka John Le Carre, who passed away last year, may be best known for his fictionalised spyworlds, but this fiction was often based on his own life and his experiences of working in MI5 and MI6 at the height of the Cold War. For Sisman, the challenge of writing and telling the stories of Cornwell's life therefore meant negotiating these histories, as well as le Carré's tendency to continue to produce ambiguity about his life and work.

More details here

10. 'Buckinghamshire Spies and Subversives' with D.J. Kelly

27 November Buckinghamshire Archives Online

Buckinghamshire has a 600 year history of subversion, sedition and espionage. The county has been home to radical plotters, heretics and heretic hunters, agents provocateurs and informers. Two world wars brought spies, secret agents and saboteurs to the county and many of our stately homes housed wartime code-breakers, eavesdroppers, boffins, intelligence chiefs and even Nazi officers. A surprising number of women spies were incarcerated here and the first use of covert surveillance photography was against local women. From religious martyrs and gunpowder plotters to atomic secrets traitors and the domestic terrorists of modern times - this county has seen it all.

More details here

11. 'A Stranger Within: Diversity and Identity in Canadian Intelligence' with Huda Mukbil

30 November Brunel University Online

Huda Mukbil and her family fled Ethiopia during its civil war and became Canadian citizens. Shortly after the attacks of 11 September 2001, she became an officer of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS).

Huda's presentation will reveal the twists and turns of her sixteen-year career at CSIS, including her inability to break into managerial positions unofficially reserved for white men. She will speak about her experience fighting misogyny and systemic racism and her road to demand for equity and reforms.

More details here

12. Oxford Intelligence Group

22 November Jan Goldman Times-They-Are-A'Changing: Reconfiguring Intelligence Threat Environment (Again) 29 November Elizabeth Bruton Top Secret: From ciphers to cyber security

Seminars begin at 5.30pm in the Large Lecture Room at Nuffield College, Oxford.

13. Cambridge Intelligence Seminar

12 November Ioanna Iordanou Venice's Secret Service: Intelligence Organisation in the Renaissance

19 November Michael Chertoff and Patrick Bury Adapting Western Intelligence for the New Decade

26 November Simon Miles The Problems of Perestroika: The KGB and Mikhail Gorbachev's Reforms

The Seminar will continue for now to convene virtually using Zoom. In order to attend, you must be subscribed to our mailing list. The Zoom link will be distributed in advance of the session. To subscribe, please email Dr Dan Larsen (drl37@cam.ac.uk) with a brief indication of your affiliation or interest in the Seminar.

CONFERENCES/CALL FOR PAPERS

14. The International Security and Intelligence Program (ISI) Cambridge

The ISI Cambridge is a specialist summer Programme which provides a unique opportunity to study with leading intelligence academics and practitioners in the historic setting of one of the world's foremost universities.

For four weeks, participants will attend lectures and seminars focused on the complex set of challenges that occupy the highest levels of government across the globe. These will be delivered by a diverse and accomplished team of scholars and include Special Subject Lectures delivered by prominent practitioners. In the past, these have included former Heads of MI5, MI6, GCHQ, the French Security Services, as well as top CIA and NSA representatives. Teaching is modelled on that offered by Cambridge University, the centre piece of which is small group teaching requiring individual research.

This Programme is for students and practitioners with an intellectual or professional interest in statecraft and the interlocking themes of intelligence, security, defence and foreign policy. The application round will start at the end of 2021. For more information, visit the website, follow us on Twitter (@ISICambridge), or email isi@thecsi.org.uk

15. The 2022 NASIH Conference

Hosted by the University of Calgary Alberta, Canada 18-20 July 2022

The 2022 NASIH Conference will be a virtual conference. We are looking forward to celebrating anniversaries of key events and highlighting new stories in intelligence history. Papers that adopt new methodologies or break new historiographical ground will also be foregrounded. While preference may be given to those who highlight these themes, papers dealing with any aspect of intelligence history are welcome.

Both panel and paper proposals are encouraged. Panels should include three papers and a chair. The subject matter is not limited to North America. Please submit a title, paper abstract of 350 words and a one-page CV to nasihconference@gmail.com by 1 December 2021. A panel proposal should also include a 500 word panel abstract.

16. The Zagreb Security Forum

Hosted by the Hybrid Warfare Research Institute Zagreb, Croatia 7-8 October 2022

For the 2022 Zagreb Security Forum we welcome paper proposals from scientific or practitioner perspectives, on every issue relating to the conference theme, with special emphasis on:

• A potential nexus between Hybrid Threats, climate change, and environmental considerations

• The role of Strategic Communication and Crisis Management in countering Hybrid Threats through the study and analysis of practical case studies

• Concepts for the evaluation and analysis of Hybrid Threat effects and influences on civil society and industry

- The concept of and role of Strategic Culture in a hybrid threat context
- Case studies of disinformation campaigns
- The role of technology and R&D in early detection and prevention of Hybrid Threats
- The military role in hybrid threat contexts
- Modern threats to maritime security and safety, with emphasis on the Mediterranean Sea

• Advantages, limitations, ethical questions and legal consequences of counter-hybrid threats activities.

Please submit your paper proposal abstract of 250-300 words and your detailed CV in English by email to petra@zagrebsecurityforum.com. The deadline for proposal submissions is 20 December 2021.

For more information about the privacy policy of the School of Security Studies and Public Policy, please visit:

https://www.kcl.ac.uk/sspp/departments/warstudies/about/dataprotection.aspx

Kind regards, David Schaefer