

Watch Us Fall

Joan Zen

©2001 All Rights Reserved

Just keep on building and buying
Regardless of who's doing the dying
We have to do our part at the expense of the very human heart

We can turn a blind eye, as long as our children don't cry
The suffering of our own friends still won't make us mend our ways
We're not infallible either. Not angels nor devils we are neither.

As long as fear breeds contempt for others,
we will continue to kill and maim our brothers
What's begun is done, God help us all.
Ashes to ashes, watch us fall.

They say, "Don't mind us" though we're at war.
No matter that we know just what's at its core.
We're tearing us apart. Sacrificial Earth becomes our martyr.

So turn on, tune in and tune out.
While the rest of the world seems to scream and shout.
The broken dreams of sainted ones
still can't help us see our faults.
Can we face the truth within our hearts?
Put sanctions against death's art.

As long as fear breeds contempt for others,
we will continue to kill and maim our brothers.
What's begun is done, God help us all.
Ashes to ashes, watch us fall.