CHAPTER ONE

The Whiffley's First Christmas.

Twas five days before Christmas on the Sparks Ship Enterprise, and the mothership smelled of Leonies Christmas Pies.

The Whiffley's are scurrying and all have a smile,
Everyone was full of cheer, even little Kyle.

The ship was adorned in Christmas decor,
with Christmas Wreaths hanging upon every door.

The jingle and jangle of Christmas bells ringing,
and the Angel-like voices of the Whiffley's were singing.

The rumors were flying all aboard the Mothership, the rumors about Santa, a man called Saint Nick.

The Whiffley's were all curious as the Whiffley's can be,
They have heard about Santa and now they want to see.

Jolly ole Saint Nicholas, his beard is white as snow, his sleigh and all his reindeer, in the sky they go.

On Christmas Eve he travels the whole world around,
Santa and his reindeer travel from town to town.

Visiting all the little girls and boys, and under their Christmas Tree, he leaves trinkets and toys without making any noise, and then he begins to flee.

Off into the wonder dust Santa disappears,
Santa, he's been doing this for many many years.

The Whiffley's are excited to meet this Santa Claus, jumping up and down with Joy and then they all pause.

To go find Agnes and glint to the North Pole,
then we could see Santa and his reindeer, says Joel.

So down the hall they scurry. Looking for Agnes everywhere, when they see her in the Snackertiara, having a Christmas Pear.

Leonie makes them special, just for this time of year,
With pomegranate sauce sprinkled with peppermint, they look like Christmas Cheer.

So Agnes tells the story of, when she and Santa met,
he made her promise it would never happen again, so he wouldn't have to fret.

With a bump and a bang Santa's horns all went toot, and Agnes her olfactometer landed right in Santa's boot.

Agnes her meter reads jolly is he,
Jolly ole Saint Nicolas he always will be.

So to be like the children, you must wait like they do.
So hang your Christmas stockings and leave snacks for Santa too.

Well the Whiffley's weren't hanging their stockings with care,
the Whiffley's we're hanging them everywhere.

Every corridor had stockings, the Snackertiara too,
Some stockings were old and some were brand new.

There were red ones and green ones and one had on a shoe.
Some had polka dots, some had holes and some two shades of blue.

With their stockings all hung, the Whiffley's are full of glee, and now they are looking for Agnes to get them a Christmas tree.

Well Agnes says yes we will go right away, and get a Christmas tree.
And place it in the center of the mothership for every eye to see.

So off they all glint to find that special tree,
and homemade decorations Agnes says there will be.

So the Whiffley's all head to the Arts and Crafts room, Leonie brings them popcorn and she also brings a broom .

The Whiffley's string popcorn for their lovely Christmas tree, Hanging gumdrops and candy canes and Christmas bells of three.

Now the Whiffley's were all happy like the Whiffley's like to be,
All sitting back admiring their beautiful Christmas tree.

Then Miss Junbug came flying through the Whiffley's front door, with a book in her hand she said she had more.

Christmas is very special Miss Junbug had to say,
because Jesus was born on Christmas day.

So she reads to the Whiffley's about the king being born,
Reading about our Lord Jesus and how he is adorned.

Telling of the gift that God gave us that day,
Christmas is a celebration of Jesus' Birthday.

Then she turns on the music for the Whiffley's to sing,
And passes out drums and bells for all to ring.

She says here's a song for us all to sing,
A song all about our Savior The Newborn King.

"The Drummer Boy", music sheets she has in her hand,
Saying we should all sing along and the song will be grand.
