

Q&A for Novak's Manufacturing Company Announcement by Governor Jim Justice

Question and Answer Session

Q: What is the announcement about Novak's Manufacturing Company?

A: West Virginia Governor Jim Justice announced on January 10, 2025 that Novak's Inc., a major name in the firearms industry, is expanding its activities in Parkersburg, West Virginia. Novak's Manufacturing Company plans to create a full production line of custom firearms, starting with the Novak Signature Series 1911. The new designs will include technological improvements for civilian, law enforcement, and military firearms.

Q: What is the significance of this announcement by Governor Jim Justice?

A: The announcement marks a pivotal moment for West Virginia's economic landscape, highlighting the state's commitment to fostering industrial growth and job creation. It showcases Governor Jim Justice's dedication to attracting and supporting businesses, thereby strengthening the local economy. Governor Justice stated that this is "just the beginning" of bringing the firearm manufacturing industry to the Mountain State, which is expected to grow and create more jobs.

Q: When will Novak's Manufacturing Company start production?

A: Production in Wood County is expected to start in Q1 2025. Partial production support will be facilitated with the strategic alliance with JC Precision Milling as expansion for Novak's Manufacturing Company is executed in 2025 and beyond in West Virginia.

Q: Will Novak's Manufacturing Company be hiring?

A: Novak's Manufacturing Company plans to expand its engineering and manufacturing capabilities with a focus on innovation and sustainability in West Virginia supported in full with the strategic alliance with JC Precision Milling. The company aims to collaborate with local educational institutions to develop a skilled workforce and invest in cutting-edge technologies that will drive future growth aligned with market demand.

Q: Where can I buy Novak's Manufacturing Company firearms?

A: Production will start in Q1 2025 on a limited and exclusive introductory basis to serve existing customer orders. Current plans will expand direct sales channels in the second half of 2025. Updates will be announced on www.novaks1911.com.

Q: What partnerships is Novak's Manufacturing Company forming for this expansion?

A: Novak's is partnering with Illinois-based JC Precision Milling to develop the new product lines. To ensure the success of Novak's Manufacturing Company in West Virginia, a collaborative approach will be taken, involving state and local government support, workforce development programs, and continuous engagement with the community. This comprehensive strategy will help the company thrive and contribute positively to the state's economy.