

I have been working with Mark in the past six months on a small molecule inhibitor program for a novel oncology target. I found Mark to be strategic in leading the med chem effort with our collaborator while paying close attention to the details and identify gaps in the SAR and compound design. He maintains a good balance between relentless pursuing new ideas and planning the experiments with a realist plan. Mark's long industry experience makes this seems effortless but in reality, is quite challenging to manage for everyone in the biotech space. I recommend Mark to any project leaders or biologists who is search for a seasoned med chem co-lead.
