LETTER FROM THE CHAIRPERSON

The Southeast Artist Collaboration, Inc. (SEACOL) multi-cultural arts program headquartered in Montgomery, Alabama. Our mission is to be a force of advocacy for individuals, especially our youth to have equal opportunities to discover and develop their cognitive abilities through sequential, comprehensive and integrative artistic programs while simultaneously allowing them to understand their own cultural heritage and the cultural heritage of others.

SEACOL conducts educational classes, residencies and workshops in the areas of Creative Dance, Drama, Writing, Etiquette, Health & Wellness Education, Personal/Career Development Training and Economic Development. We work collaboratively with our Public & Private Educational School Systems, World Leaders, Churches, Corporate and Small Businesses, Arts Organizations; as well as, Local Communities throughout the Southeastern States to help ensure all people, especially our children and youth have the opportunity to be exposed and explore their creative abilities by collaborating with various sectors of the arts.

This year, we articulated the issues of children and youth at risk living in food dessert areas of our communities. In recognition of this growing epidemic, we have partnered with both public and private sector schools and businesses to take action in developing and implementing "Urban Healing Tower Gardens" to help eradicate the problems within our communities.

SOUTHEAST ARTIST COLLABORATION (SEACOL) Uniting Our Community Through Arts, Health, Technology & Economics

Southeast Artist Collaboration (SEACOL) was founded by Dr. Denise M. Dukes, PhD initially in 2007. However, The organization was formally incorporated in the State of Alabama and recognized as a Public Charity 501 (c) 3 in 2017 by the Internal Revenue Service. The Southeast Artist Collaboration envisions building a safe child-friendly society. We seek sustainable solutions to prevalent, long-term problems with children and youth; as well as, our adults through a community-based approach focusing on Arts Integration, Health & Wellness Education, Economic Development and helping our families adapt to a new era of Virtual World Inclusion utilizing technology proficiently in and out of the classrooms.

Through a variety of empowering measures, we improve our communities living conditions in order to help our children realize their career dreams by focusing on the whole person.

OUR VISION:

SEACOL aspires to achieve a healthy and safe child-friendly society to ensure opportunities for health, education, play, nutrition, and survival.
