

She Heels Her, She Heels the World

Greetings!!

I am excited to announce that the 3rd annual She Heels Her, She Heels the World women's conference is happening October 24th through October 26th in Richmond, VA!! The purpose of this conference is to bring women together to provide them with support and resources in the space of personal growth and healing. I am a woman who began her healing journey well over 25 years ago and know that having the right people around you make all the difference. I was that young woman who did not see, understand, or even cared to recognize her value. And because of that, I spent too many precious years surviving instead of living. This conference is dedicated to supporting women by providing transparent discussions, sharing meaningful information and being a safe space to engage, no matter where they are in their healing and growth process.

A little bit about the brain and businesswoman behind the conference. My name is Kanya Ford, but you can call me Coach Kay. I am a mother of five amazing children, wife to a caring and supportive husband and loyal best friend to ME! I grew up in the era of latch-key kids, approved child sex exploitation, and drugs as a preferred method of stress relief. Although I had an amazing mother, I know that she was only able to give me what she had, and oftentimes that just wasn't enough. As a young, widowed, single mother surviving through her own traumas, what truly did she have to spare? So, I did what most kids did in the early 90s, I just figured it out. That led to many misguided juvenile fueled decisions, which took a horrible toll on how I viewed and valued life. Fast forward to five children, a husband, consistent self-reflection, and several years later; I began to see myself in the mirror with, and on purpose. I began to feel as good as I did when I put on my favorite pair of heels, on an everyday basis! I was healing from the inside out.

Enough about me, I want to share more about how you can be a valuable part of this annual conference. As a life coach and clinical sexologist, I work with women on a regular basis to build, and maintain, their inner strength. I have listened to countless women speak about themselves as if they are not worthy of love, peace, joy, and sometimes life! Being able to host this conference and give women hope of a healed way of living is so important to me. Your contribution to the She Heels Her, She Heels the World conference will allow me to host a maximum number of women, provide much needed resources for each woman, and ensure that each woman is treated like the Queen that she is! Your sponsorship, and/or participation will help with the welcome festivities, conference bags, having all materials needed for activities, providing delicious meals for each participant, and the ability to host in a remarkable location year after year. Your sponsorship, and/or participation also shows that you care about and support the mission that I am on, which is to Heel the World, one woman at a time! Please take a moment to review the various ways you can support this event!

Sincerely,

Kanya Ford
