Paul Leddy is an accomplished real estate professional with almost a decade of full-time industry experience, and is currently the Broker and Owner of MiLow Real Estate. Paul has successfully closed and funded more than 400 transactions for families throughout major Texas markets, including Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, and San Antonio.

MiLow Real Estate—named after Paul's son, Milo—embodies his innovative vision for the industry. After years of sharing commissions with large corporate brokerages, Paul launched his own firm with a distinct model: To share those commission directly with his customers instead. This client-focused approach allows buyers and sellers alike to save thousands on their transactions while still receiving exceptional service and expertise.

Proactive Communication

Clients consistently praise Paul's communication style, noting how his proactive updates and clear explanations make the often complex buying and selling process feel seamless and straight forward.

Client-Focused Approach

Paul is deeply committed to helping clients accomplish their real estate goals, providing market-driven guidance and leveraging expert negotiation skills to get families to the finish line.

Cost-Saving Innovation

Through MiLow's innovative business model, Paul has created a way for families to save significant money on real estate transactions while still receiving full-service, expert representation.
