Salafurka is a new media artist who lives in Poland. He is a part of CopyPlanet project.

He oscillates by the computer technologies, generative structures, machine learning and artistic techniques and concepts of human organism and being of the post-human future exist.

Using software such as TouchDesigner he is integrated human movements and thinking into the computer projects by using interaction in real time projects.

When he creates this form of expression, he always tries to add something new, something exploratory to him, so that each subsequent work is also a development - not just an answer to a given problem or topic.

For him as an artist, the most important thing is to combine his two passions - art and science. He considers these two fields to be perfectly compatible with each other, following a common path since the beginning of the cyber world. That is why he is creating interactive art, objects, installations, films that need someone's gaze in order to live.

As he expands his exploration of the virtual world and the innovations associated with it, he expands his own barriers of creativity. " I look at the world, trying to make sense of what I see, through the lens of what I can create. "

A 3D visualization of a grid of cubes, similar to the one on the left, but with a pixelated or dithered appearance, giving it a digital, blocky aesthetic.

Hailing from the Montréal underground, Shamanic Sound is a techno/ethereal Artist, Producer & DJ. Dark & eerie would perfectly describe Shamanic's rebellious and hypnotic style of unrelenting Techno sound, which has been making waves in Montréal's and North America's underground scene.
