How soon are you ready to purchase a Newfoundland:

How long are you prepared to wait for a quality Newfoundland:

Do you realize that quality Newfoundlands from reputable breeders range from approximately $2500. to $4000:

Please realize that even BYB's (backyard breeders) and puppy millers also charge these prices and it is imperative YOU do your homework and ask for a copy of proof of health clearances on the parents of the litter for hips, elbows, heart, patella, cystinuria, etc.  if  not listed in the database

<https://www.newfoundlanddog-database.net/en>

You should also inquire if the litter (the puppies themselves!) will be heart screened by a "Board certified Cardiologist" instead of a regular vet/practitioner.

Please note our puppies do not leave their mother until 12 weeks of age and after they have had their routine deworming, vaccination, microchip and routine puppy heart evaluation (by a B.C. Cardiologist). While we try to accommodate preferences, families do not choose the puppy. We choose the puppy based on our long time experience in what we feel is the best puppy for your family's individual needs/ circumstances and lifestyle so that not only is the puppy happy, but also you and your family.

This also includes if you are inquiring about an adolescent or retired adult.

Therefore we cannot tell you what we have available “until” we have received this questionnaire.

Photos of your home & yard are sincerely appreciated if you'd like to also send, and does speed up the process.

Make sure you “save” the answers to this doc before sending back to us :)

We appreciate your time in filling out our questionnaire.

We will be in contact as soon as possible. Please realize that reputable breeders are very busy in caring for our Newfoundlands and we are especially very busy if we currently have a litter, so please be patient but DO feel free to email me if you have not received a reply within a couple of days - just in case your application was missed or we did not receive it. Thanks!
