

Austin previously served as Vice President of Mountain Springs Water Corporation for 2 years. In this position, Austin assisted in the day-to-day operation of the corporation including billing, maintenance, bookkeeping, and business management. Austin is now filling a vacant position on the board and is excited to continue his involvement with Mountain Springs. Austin has been a small business owner in the community and is able to bring his business management perspective to the board. He has also served as a representative on a number of boards and organizations in his professional life working for the Idaho Governor's Office of Species Conservation. He is committed to bettering the corporation, completing the large projects that the board has on its plate, conserving our amazing water and representing the members of this great corporation.
