Julia McIntyre from the CC Genealogical Society spoke to us and it was very interesting. If you are interested in finding out more about starting your search, The Genealogical Society meets every Monday morning at 10:30 currently at the PG Library. They will be moving back to mid-county as soon as that library opens up. The Society has been in existence for 50 years and currently has around 100 members. Julia says that now is a great time to look up your family tree because of the internet and AI.
