Public Safety: Mark Tarle, chair:

Officer Romagnoli presented an idea for fundraising to purchase new hardware/software for the police vehicles. The software would enable the officers to print thermal copies of citations and e-file them directly to the magistrate and also load accident reports into the office computer. This would allow officers more time to spend on the roads. The cost of the software would be around $2000 - $3000 per vehicle. They would like to have the software in two vehicles.

Jennifer Mullins made note that Officer Baustert advised of a public safety issue with people parking in the safety zone in front of the Post Office in the plaza. The reflective tape is worn and needs to be replaced.

Jennifer Mullins sent out for a grant application for a USDA Rural Business Development Program. When speaking with USDA they had said an updated feasibility study would be covered under the grant 100% so resident taxes would not need to be spent. A feasibility study could cost as much as 20-30 thousand dollars. There is a small window to apply for this year and the borough may not be eligible due to USDA guidelines. Apollo is not listed as an economically disenfranchised area but it may be due to the Apollo area zip code and not Apollo Borough municipality. USDA said if we can get a proposal in by the deadline, March 31st they will take a look at it and if we do not get anything this year we should continue to apply again in the future.

Public Relations/Citizens Advisory Committee Report: Jennifer Mullins, chair:

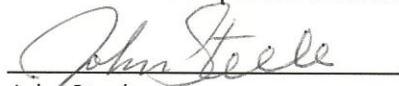

Laura Hawkins is asking for two letters of support from the borough for grant applications. One is for an application to DCNR pertaining to the Roaring Run Watershed Association looking to rehab 2.5 miles of the trail. The other letter is for an application that Laura's employer submits to DCNR to support her position.

Jennifer Mullins asked for approval from council to use some Event Fund money to purchase t-shirts to help with funding hardware for the police vehicles. Council unanimously approved to use some event funds to help out the police.

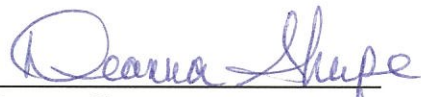

Becky Kane said she had heard Apollo Ridge High School was looking for a project for the students to sell T-shirts. Jennifer Mullins said she would check with Christine Kostiuk at the high school.
