THE TRESTLEBOARD

MAR-APR 2020

Message from WM Christopher B West:

Brethren,

As of March 23rd, all Lodge activities have been cancelled until further notice. Please continue to check your email and our Facebook page regularly for updates on when we will resume regular Lodge activities.

We are abiding by Federal, State, Local and Grand Lodge recommendations to postpone and/or cancel all events with 10 more people until we get the 'all clear'.

For those Brothers that are home bound or have no family in the immediate area, please do not ever hesitate to reach out to your Lodge Brothers if you need anything! We are here for you. Call our WM Chris West at 804.986.6011 or WB Secretary Ray Brigandi 602-430-7121.

Thank you, Brethren, for your patience as we move through this ordeal. Be safe and take precautions especially if you have existing respiratory or other health care related issues.

I hope to see you all in Lodge soon

FROM THE EAST

Worshipful Christopher B. West, PM

Brethren –

Can you believe we are already through ¼ of 2020? Time passes ever faster with each passing day it seems. Do you ever wonder why that is? Here is one theory that I've subscribed to and what I do daily to attempt to slow time down. Not literally of course, but perceptually.

One article I read many, many years ago talked about how the brain stores memories. It is much like saving a file on your computer and just like your computer there are two different ways in which you might store a file.

The first is the creation of an entirely new folder, storing something you've created entirely from scratch. By content it doesn't resemble anything else created prior. The second is simply editing or updating an existing document. This doesn't require a totally new folder, but more simply just some slight changes and modifications to an already existing one.

Think about each and every day in your life. How much is each day the same, or different, than the previous? For those of us that work 9-5 jobs, Mondays thru Fridays probably seem nearly identical both day-to-day as well as week-to-week, month-to-month, even year-to-year. It's tough to tell some days apart! Even on weekends, do you find yourself doing much of the same things? Running the same errands, hiking the same trail, eating at your same favorite breakfast or lunch spot, attending church every Sunday AM, visiting with the same family or friend? Are you creating completely NEW memories or simply editing an older similar, albeit previous, memory?

If all your days, weekdays and/or weekends, all look the same then time will have the perception of speeding up to you, because your brain can't find much to differentiate between one day and the next. The memories of these days all sort of run together. You're simply editing or updating an already existent memory.

On the contrast, if you are going and doing something totally different each daytime slows down. Think about this for an example; Why is it when you drive to a totally new place along a completely new route where you've never been it seems to take so long to get to your destination? (Are we there yet?) But on your return drive home it seems so much shorter in length even though it's the very same distance traveled? It is because on your way there you're experiencing something for the first time, creating a totally new memory in your brain storage, but on the way back you've already seen it all before, so your brain simply updates the already existent file. This is why going on a vacation is so highly recommended! (and why timeshares are the worst vacation idea!) It's new and different, your brain is active, absorbing, and experiencing something entirely new! This gives your brain a break from the redundancy of daily life and allows it to again begin creating entirely fresh, new folders and files expanding your memory and thus, in perception at least, expanding your time.

This also explains why time seems to speed up the older we get. When we are younger the whole world is new to us! New places. New friends. New experiences (good and bad). Every day in school we are learning something totally new. Everything is experienced for the first time. But as we age, we see so many of the same things again and again. Our daily lives are just repeating of the day before. Be it our families, our jobs, our lives as a whole, we experience less and less of those 'first times'. Retirement may be the worst of these, further fueling that speed at which time seems to be passing one by. You don't have work anymore to teach you things that are new or offer you opportunities for something different in your day. Being older, friends and family that you once hung out with and did things with are now gone or moved away. You travel shorter distances due to age, eyesight, or some other health issue, so you don't see much in the way of new views and progress. Heck, you may not get out of the house much at all. Looking back on time seems lightning fast. You constantly ask yourself where did the days, weeks, months, and/or years go?

Do not let time manipulate your life, you manipulate time. Whether you're driving an automatic, a 4-speed, 5-speed, or 3-speed on the column – YOU control the speed that time passes. Do something new EVERY day. Watch something new EVERY day. Try something new EVERY day. Eat something new EVERY day. Go drive, bike, walk, Uber, somewhere new EVERY day. Take a different route to your job or that next doctor's appointment. Go to 2nd closest McDonalds, not the closest for lunch or try someplace entirely new. Attend a different Lodge for a change. Don't watch an old classic you've seen 20 times, watch a new(er) movie or read a new book.

In summary, get your brain back to experiencing BRAND-NEW things again – create NEW folders and files each and every day instead of just routinely editing older ones. Find new interests, new friends, new goals. Slow time down by breaking life's monotonous repetition.

When I strive to do new things, go new places, I can see and feel the difference in my life, my attitude, my overall health. Not to say that I don't ever get in a rut like everyone else, but this works for me. And I hope it works for you too!
As for Lodge news – we're rock 'n rolling! Come out and visit us soon! I promise you'll experience something new and different this, and every, Tuesday at Phoenicia #58!

FROM THE WEST

Brother Mathew Brassard - Sr. Warden

Greetings from the West,

First, I would like to give a shout out to all of our brothers who have or are still making sound and effective leadership decisions for the lodge. The financial industry and masonry both have a common trait. We like to look back historically and ask "how did this or that happen why? How can we use that in our current environment?" So, when we are in situations where we get to say "well this has never happened before..." it can be tough to know you are making the right call. In my opinion there is no right or wrong call. There is simply people in roles of leadership trying to navigate the craft for the best of all involved. Keep up the good work!

So, when things get serious and the stress levels get high; I find myself doing what I always do. Making light of the situation. Perhaps too much so. And in that spirit, I submit for your reading enjoyment the following Masonic jokes. Because if we cannot poke fun at us who will?

1. How many Masons does it take to change a light bulb?

A: What?! You want to change something?!

A: Twelve. One to screw it in, one to read the minutes of the previous light bulb replacement, and ten to sit on the sideline and complain about the way they used to change light bulbs.

2. Why did the Stewards run off the road?

A: They didn't have any lines

3. I discovered only Lodge Officers like knock knock jokes. Everyone else won't stand for them.

4. Mentor: If I stopped a man from beating a donkey, what virtue would I be showing?

New Member: Brotherly Love?

5. Why do Masons study in the restroom?

A: It's properly tiled.

6. What time is it when the lodge visits the bar?

A: High time

7. Why was the crocodile afraid to eat the masons?

A: Because they would lodge in its throat

8. What did the mason say when he fell off the drawbridge?

A: So moat it be

9. Where was King Solomon's Temple located?

A: On the side of his head

10: What's the difference between a mason and a Rhinoceros?

A: Well if you don't know, you would not make a very good Tyler.

I hope this new month finds you in good health, with less stress and perhaps more toilet paper.

Fraternally,

Mat Brassard
Sr. Warden

FROM THE SOUTH

Brother Steve Dilda - Jr. Warden

Greetings Brethren from the South Gate

Every day is a new day, every new day has it's challenges. And here we all are having survived all of the other challenges. And we will survive this one, too. Nobody has ever swam through these waters. So, the best we can do is use good common sense and practice the power of prayer.

Our Lodge room, and the whole building actually, has always been a sanctuary for me. When I drive through those gates and see all the other cars and trucks already there, I breathe easier because I know I am entering my sanctuary of brotherly love, relief and truth. A gathering of brothers who share the same belief in a Supreme Being, everlasting life and practice charity. The particulars of any brother's politics and the doctrine of any brother's faith are left at the door through which we pass clad in white aprons, pure and unspotted before the world. That, my brothers, is a true sanctuary. Not every brother is a Christian or a Jew, and in the Lodge, it doesn't matter. Not every brother harbors the same political convictions, and in the Lodge, it doesn't matter. In the very first charge we received as an Entered Apprentice Mason we were all challenged. And, I am proud to say that Phoenicia #58 upholds that charge to the utmost degree, and to that, thank you.

We are not to permit or tolerate disloyalty of rebellion, but patiently submit to legal authority and conform with cheerfulness to the government of the country in which we live. Be true to your government and just to your country.

All the way back to medieval times, churches offered a "right of asylum" where those charged with a crime could flee and to varying degrees be free from some legal action - a place of "timeout" where the passions of the moment could cool and dissipate. In our modern times, Sanctuary movements were born again in the 1980s. By 1987, four hundred forty places in the United States were designated as "sanctuary cities" that were open to migrants fleeing the civil wars in Central America. Similar places also existed in such diverse places as Germany, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland and Canada. I would suggest that the Masonic Lodge has long been such a place. It is the one place where families divided by politics could go and, at least from the moments between gavels, we can let go of our differences and be good men and true as brothers. Indeed, there are dramatic and moving stories of how our Masonic institution provide a safe haven in troublesome times in every war for soldiers of opposing sides. Freemasonry not only takes the weapons from our hands, it links brothers to grasp the hand of their enemies and recognize in a grip, a word, and the perfect points of our entrance, a brother whose values far exceeds our differences.

In a message to the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Dan Brown, who has written so much about Freemasonry, commented:

"in a world where men do battle over those definition of God is more accurate, I cannot adequately express the deep respect and admiration I feel toward an organization in which men of differing faiths are able to 'break bread together' in a bond of brotherhood, friendship, and camaraderie."

Once again, our Lodge needs to be a safe haven of diversity, tolerance and sanctuary in our world torn by divisions and distinctions.

Faithful and Fraternally,
Steve Dilda, JW

FROM THE EDITOR

Brethren,

In an effort to save lodge funds, postal printouts will be black and white. And on that note, brothers who are receiving the snail mail. If you have an email address, we can move you to electronic copies, just email to secretary@phoenicia58.org and he will add you to the list. This will save enormous amounts of time, energy, and save the lodge expenses to put to more charity work.

EDUCATION ARTICLES

From Joe Pappas Chaplin

IF by Rudyard Kipling

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: 'Hold on!'

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

The officers of Phoenicia Lodge No. 58 express their gratitude to all the brethren who have served the Lodge as Masters and who continue to serve as Past Masters. They who have gone before us have laid the foundation and the lower stories of the speculative building that we call "Phoenicia Lodge" for which we are indebted. We especially thank those Past Masters who continue to serve the Lodge that we may ever continue to build a magnificent edifice, in service to mankind and to the Great Architect who has given us every good and great thing and whose forgiveness we all rely upon.

VALLEY OF THE SUN DEMOLAY

Hello All,

In March of 2010, Paradise Valley DeMolay Chapter was chartered at Silver Trowel Lodge #29 in Phoenix AZ. Fast forward to March of 2018, the members of the chapter elected to change the name to the Valley of the Sun DeMolay Chapter when the chapter was moved from Phoenix to the Sun City Lodge #72 in Sun City AZ. Since that time, Valley of the Sun has been looking to be made complete with a charter of their own, with the continued efforts by the chapter members, parents and chapter advisors working hard to increase membership and improve the overall program of the chapter. On March 13th I was notified that our charter will now be presented to the Valley of the Sun DeMolay Chapter.

Valley of the Sun proudly invites you and your organization to Sun City Lodge #72 to our Stated meeting on May 3rd, 2020 at 4pm where the Executive Officer of the Arizona State DeMolay Association will be in attendance to present our chapter with its new charter. Please arrive early for snacks and refreshments prior to the meeting. Please RSVP by April 26th as to how many will be in attendance so we can plan accordingly. Thank you all for your continued support of the Valley of the Sun DeMolay Chapter and its members. We look forward to seeing you there.

With the current state of events, this will be a tentative schedule pending the outcome of the health conditions in the valley. All health concerns are important to us and we will not put anyone at risk if we have not gotten past this current issue. If the situation has not improved, we will postpone it to our following stated meeting on June 7th, 2020.
