A MESSAGE FROM THE WORSHIPFUL MASTER

WORSHIPFUL MASTER STEVE HOOPER

Brethren,

Greetings from the East. A lot of nice things have transpired since my last article. Here is a quick rundown:

Firstly, we have, again, met our requirements for the Master Architect Award.

Our Craft Culinary efforts are continuing to pay big dividends, and again I thank everyone for helping out. There are several more events taking place over the summer, particularly concerts. For those of you who weren't around several years ago, the Metallica concert was our highest grossing event for a long time, and this summer there are two!

Blue Horseshoe was delayed for a couple weeks but went off without a hitch.

This year it was a low-key event, but we ended up with a lot of meat and actually finished it at our April stated meeting.

Our PVST brethren have completed, and installed, a magnificent gate at the foyer of the lodge room. There's no way to properly describe it and give it the justice it deserves; you'll just have to come and see it for yourselves.

On April 6-7, WBs Hernandez, Dilda, Brigandi, and I paid Flagstaff #7 a visit for their stated meeting. There was much frivolity, and a fun time was had by all. This has always been a fun trip, made even better by not having the stress of an "official visit".

Last but not least, our little lodge is growing. In addition to performing a courtesy second degree for Brother Alex and our brethren in Prescott, we will be initiating two new Entered Apprentices on April 25 and May 2. Furthermore, there are several more petitions outstanding. It looks to be a busy summer.

Fraternally,

Steve Hooper
Worshipful Master

A MESSAGE FROM THE SENIOR WARDEN

WB REED HOUGE – SR. WARDEN

Brethren,

Recently I attended the annual Grand Lodge Leadership Conference and I thought I'd provide an overview of the event for the ones that could not attend.

When: The leadership conference is generally the same time each year, at the end of March, this year the actual dates were from Friday thru Sunday, 3/24 thru 3/26. There were 33 lodges in attendance with approximately 90-100 attendees.

Where: In the past years the Leadership conference was many times held in Casa Grande AZ due to its central location to several lodges and the relatively inexpensive hotel costs. That hotel has since changed ownership and costs associated to the conference have drastically risen.

With that said, the Grand Lodge was in search of a suitable facility to allow for several breakout rooms, comfortable lodging, with attractions in the area for family members that decided to come with the attending brother. This year the event was held at the Prescott Convention Center in Prescott Arizona which fit all the requirements mentioned above. It is my hope that we use this facility again next year but we'll see how it all comes together as we get closer to March 2024. I personally like this location since the staff was great to work with and it helped immensely that WB Steve Bracety (Aztlan #1) is the General Manager.

Event Agenda: This year's conference was focused on "Long Range Planning" and used an "Open Discussion" format so brothers can learn from each other versus being lectured to. Long range planning is one of the hardest tasks the Worshipful Master and officers have to unanimously construct and put into motion. Some lodges are good at constructing a plan together but have a hard time maintaining continuity from year to year. The goal for the day was to have each lodge construct at least two "plans" that the members could take back to the lodge to present to the trustees, officers, and members.

Day 1 (Saturday): On the morning of day one, each of the attendees were dispersed into three rooms and no lodge member was to sit at a table with another lodge member. (Continued on Page 6)

A MESSAGE FROM THE JUNIOR WARDEN

WB TONY HERNANDEZ – JR WARDEN

Brethren,

Spring is upon us with summer looming in the background, just waiting to bake us into crispy little nuggets. Fortunately; the upcoming Cinco de Mason party on May 3rd should be a hoot and completely take our minds off the scorching heat to come. Mark your calendars. The Phoenicia Cup Poker Tournament will be held on Saturday, May 20th. Past Champions don't forget to bring the trophies to the tournament. Also coming up is the Phoenicia 58/Riders of the 3rd Degree Chromebooks presentation at Sunset Canyon Elementary School on May 24th at 2:00 pm. A Bikes for Books / Chromebooks presentation will be scheduled very soon for Campo Bello Elementary School.

If you have never attended a presentation at one of our Elementary Schools, please make an effort. It's a great opportunity to see the results of our charity work and fundraising in action. Email updates for these events will be sent as the get closer. One last note; the start of Bowling season is in June so, shine up your bowling balls and get ready for some fun! I'm looking forward to seeing the Brethren at our next stated meeting.

Sincerely and fraternally,
WB Tony Hernandez

This was done for two reasons; one to get brothers from around the state may get to know each other; and two, to hear what concerns other lodges have and related solutions.

On the afternoon of day one, the lodges were brought back together so they could bring the learnings from the morning back to their lodge. It was at this point that the lodge members chose a least two areas they felt their lodge needed help. At the end of the day each lodge presented back to the room their detailed plans, how they were going to implement and the associated timelines.

After dinner there were three presentations from WB David Fierro, WB Nick Lindquist, and Bro. Jacob Trayer talking on the topic “The Balance of Esoterica in a Well-Run Lodge.” This was new for the conference since it is supposed to be a “leadership” event but it was decided that many of the brothers are interested in masonic esoterica so we carved out time after the conference to see how it goes. It was well received and suspect there will be similar presentations in future conferences.

Day 2 (Sunday): Day Two was a panel discussion format addressing common concerns within lodges. The panel consisted of WB David Sahady, WB Mike Gatti, WB Dwayne Hoyt, and WB John Welsch and emceed by WB Tim Scarpino. This was also well received and allowed the attendees to discuss amongst each other common concerns or successes. Day ended at high twelve and everyone returned to their respective abodes.

Fraternally,

Reed Houge
Senir Warden

Circle of Concern ... Dorothy Jamieson, PM

There has been lots of news concerning our Grand Officers and Chapter members.

Patti Herington, PM had hip surgery and is doing well. Plus, she celebrated her 80th birthday. Howard Houlette, husband of Diana Houlette, PGM, Grand Secretary Emeritus, died in April. Jim Hurd, PGP, is receiving chemo treatments as his cancer has returned. Jim Wadley, WGP, had back surgery and is recovering very well.

Mitzi Loughridge, WGM, was ill with whatever bug was going around as was our Worthy Matron Martie MacKidd. Both are doing much better and are travelling to other Grand Chapters again. Moira Carlton, PGM, is now staying with Sister Terry Andrews as she continues her rehab.

Our members Dorothy Jamieson had dental surgery and Sandy Stegen had an ER visit for a cut finger, both are doing well. Charlotte Hake had an episode with her heart, but is now doing fine. An anxiety attack sent Dottie Smidt, PM, to her doctor for a health evaluation. The main concern was her loss of weight, but her attitude is great as she is looking forward to celebrating her 99th birthday in June. June Richards, PM continues her battle with cancer and other health issues.

The Chapter is looking forward to the return of Kathy Pierson, our pro tem organist, in May. We have been enjoying other organists helping for our meetings while Kathy was recovering from her health issues.

Candidate Assimilation

by Brother Rodger Marx, Candidate Coordinator, Phoenicia #58

It goes without saying that a lodge's future is not sustainable without a robust candidate assimilation program. Ask yourself the questions, where will we be in twenty years, and what will we be? Examine the current active membership. Are your pillar officers mostly past masters, are all of the chairs filled at each meeting? Do you have a designated brother who actually accepted the initiative to work with each individual candidate personally to introduce them to the fraternity and our brotherhood.

Do you know the candidates?

As a lodge brother, how do you personally know (or find out) who is interested in joining the masonic order? If you wait for your secretary to read his name at your stated meeting, you're already on a downhill slide to failure. Every brother has access to our Grand Lodge's Grandview system. Use it! Within the system, under your lodge, you will find the Membership Manager which includes all the people who have inquired about joining the masonic order. The grand lodge subsequently assigns these contacts to individual lodges based on home address information provided with the inquiry, candidates who have not inquired through grand lodge but are accompanied by current members are not on the Grandview system; however, they are added manually most often by the lodge secretary.

So now you know who, what should you do?

Effective communication is the key. The problem is, what is effective? It varies for each candidate. We start with a cordial introduction via phone, text, email, or all of these. The objective is to establish an open line of communication. Our initial communication included the lodge point of contact, and a brief personal history within masonry, followed with a request to verify their contact information and to indicate their preference for future communications about the lodge. This may sound trivial however we found the initial information provided on line when inquiring is often selective to eliminate future scam communications, work phone numbers and alternate email addresses are used to cull unwanted messages. Resoundingly the preferred method of communication resulted in text messaging with only a few exceptions.

After a successful line of communication had been established, the objective is to establish a personal connection with the candidate and start a bonding process. To achieve this, we include a short bio synopsis for their point of contact. And ask them to share similar information and a photo.

Organization now becomes the challenge; some lodges have a few candidates and others may have many. Constant personal communication is the key. Many candidates do not feel a personal connection with group e-mails or text messages. The Grandview system has not yet evolved to be used as a functional communications management system where you can send and receive individual messages. For this reason, you either need to invest in a CRM software system or use some creativity with your existing technology. In our case I use a coding system with my cell phone. Simply defined, I want to keep all the candidate information separated from my alphabetical phone list. Simply I code each contact with a method to keep them together. IE AAAP58 – AC01 – candidate name. This keeps the candidate in a convenient location at the top of my alphabetical list (AAA). The p58 obviously is our lodge designation and the AC indicates that this is an active candidate contact and the 01 is just a number count of contacts.

With an organizational system in place, the candidates must be encouraged to engage with us in person. Personal invitations are sent for every event or meeting. Upon their arrival it is imperative to introduce them to all the brothers present. And to encourage all brothers and candidates to get to know each other. Our lodge also has open house meetings where the candidates are encouraged to attend and bring family and friends if they choose to. These meetings may include other lodges and consist of masonic education topics and open Question and answer sessions.

How successful is this approach?

Phoenicia 58 is currently on track to add at least 12 new members within the next year, not counting two who have recently petitioned. How do we keep track of the assimilation progress? We utilize a masonic clock spreadsheet as both a communications tool and a tracking device.

All lodge members are encouraged to use the list and reach out to the candidates throughout the process.

Assimilation is communication on a timely basis for positive results.

The Gentleman in the Room

by RWB David R. Ritchie, Deputy Grand Master of Wisconsin

Anyone who has been around a toddler knows their emotional unpredictability. Maybe you cut their sandwich the wrong way or they demand to wear their shoe on the wrong foot. Anything can set them off and five minutes later they are giggling and all smiles.

A toddler is trying to understand their world, learn boundaries, and try to control what they can do with their limited knowledge, language skills, and experience. Imagine if you have only had red Kool-Aid and you don't yet know the colors. Someone serves you green Kool-Aid. You don't want green Kool-Aid. You may not even recognize it as Kool-Aid. How do you communicate your displeasure? If you're a toddler, you have a tantrum. An adult's job becomes teaching the toddler the vocabulary and the social skills necessary to communicate effectively. It becomes the adult's responsibility to provide the experiences and then allow enough control as the child grows.

An argument can be made that we, as a society, behave like toddlers. Tantrums seem to be commonplace. With changes in technology coming fast and constant. With social mores and conventions in constant flux. With the loudest voice gaining attention we struggle to control our lives. Our vocabulary seems inadequate. Frustration grows. Who will be the adult? We can give society a "time-out" or put society's "Karen's" in a corner.

It sure would be nice if we could set up civility classes. Imagine if we had courses for everyone in proper social behavior. With no diploma for bring nice how do we help change society? Toddlers learn more by observation than by direct teaching. Society needs role models. Society needs examples to follow. That role model is you. People do observe what you do. People remember the way you treat them and others. People remember the way you speak and the words you use.

You have the power to make society better. Simply by being the best man you can be. What type of language do you use, is it gruff? Rude? Is your vocabulary filled with cursing and profane language or is it filled with fifty cent words to made you look superior? Or have you learned and practiced how to communicate with people to help them feel comfortable and understand? Can you voice your opinion without anger or force? Can you voice your displeasure in a calm and collected manner without profanity or putting someone down? It takes work and practice, but people will remember.

In your efforts to control your world can you do so without your ego taking control? Can you allow other thoughts and ideas while maintaining your own? Are you open to new ideas and willing to reject ideas that the rest of society has embraced? Are you ready to expand your knowledge to become conversant on many topics without crossing the fine line to "know-it-all"? Again, skills that draw people in, not set them apart.

You are a cut above. In your efforts to become a better man, a better person, always imagine a small child is watching. What lesson do you want them to learn? Which behaviors do you wish them to adopt? Will your ideas inspire higher ideals, gentler speech, and desire for something better. Will your actions inspire them to become like you – the gentleman in the room?
