A MESSAGE FROM THE WORSHIPFUL MASTER

WORSHIPFUL MASTER STEVE HOOPER

Brethren,

Greetings from the east. As fall approaches, so does something else....Football!! I encourage everyone who is able to get trained and certified to work at the stadium this season. We have help from a couple other organizations, but for every one of their people, we lose money. Being that this is our only source of revenue we need as much participation as possible.

With that out of the way, we have a number of prospective members and a number of outstanding petitions. This means degrees, lots of degrees. We should be counting on every non-committed Tuesday through at least November for degrees or practice. There should be a third degree for Brother Ed in October and likely a second degree for Brother Gus the same month.

Our experiment with the double degree was successful and, if necessary, will be utilized again.

As far as other matters go, 58 will be hosting an open house on September 19th and the following Tuesday we will wrap up our summer bowling extravaganza. As I should be out of town for work, I won't be able to attend so the trophy will definitely go to someone else this year.

As always, thank you to all who have made this lodge what it is.

Fraternally,

Steve Hooper
Worshipful Master

A MESSAGE FROM THE SENIOR WARDEN

WB REED HOUGE – SR. WARDEN

Greeting Brothers,

Phoenicia Lodge has had the good fortune of addressing several new candidates and inquiries on Grandview and I was contemplating the importance of a thorough “Investigation” meeting. In preparing for this article, I decided to search the “Short Talk” bulletins from the Masonic Service Association and found an article addressing this subject and covered all the points I was considering. It is a little long but well worth the time to read it. For future reference, several good articles can be found at this website, www.masonictrowel.com.

Reed Houge
Sr Warden, Phoenicia Lodge #58

This Short Talk was written expressly for The Masonic Service Association's educational publications by Walter M. Callaway, Jr., Past Master of Oakland City Lodge No. 373, and of Lodge of Research No. 104, both in Atlanta, Georgia.

This essay addresses itself to all Freemasons but more particularly to the Worshipful Masters of all regular Lodges and to those members of the Lodge who are, from time to time, honored by assignment to Investigative Committees.

Fortunately, there is little in this treatise which has to lean for authority on the ancient mysteries or on speculation of origin or background, per ye, to justify the proper use of this tool of Freemasonry. No particular Masonic scholarship is required to consider the subject of Masonic Investigation. In this essay a Petitioner is so called from the time he submits his Petition to the Lodge for admission. It is after he is accepted that he becomes a Candidate.

Masonic Investigation covers a broad field, but in this presentation we shall limit its scope to that particular phase of investigation by which we try to ascertain all the pertinent information obtainable about a Petitioner for the Degrees of Freemasonry: his moral, mental, and physical qualifications to become a Freemason, a member of our ancient Brotherhood.

A MESSAGE FROM THE JUNIOR WARDEN

WB TONY HERNANDEZ – JR WARDEN

Greetings from the South,

Brethren, I'm happy to report that the lodge is going through a positive phase of growth and activity. Numerous new members and quite a few prospects are attending lodge regularly. Degrees are on the rise with a few more already scheduled. Proficiencies have been impressive with Brethren moving forward with their Masonic journeys while others are completing their MM proficiencies. As a longtime member of this lodge, I can't remember it being so busy! It's very exciting to see the lodge grow like this. Especially with a preponderance of younger candidates. It bodes well for the future of The 58.

Now for the fun stuff. It's been bowling season since June and it has been a blast. Attendance has been excellent. Brethren, their families and candidates have been enjoying the cool AC of the bowling alley while participating in the friendly banter a competition only the 58 can muster. The final bowling session will be in September and the 58 trophy will be up for grabs once again. It should be a hoot.

Finally, the 58 had their annual Hawaiian shirt night. Numerous members of Wayfarers 50 joined us again for the fun, frivolity and Brotherhood. It's becoming a Wayfarers tradition to do an official visit for Hawaiian shirt night. I support that new tradition and encourage other lodges who are dark during the summer months to do the same.

Sincerely and fraternally,
WB Tony Hernandez

It is incumbent upon us, upon receipt of his Petition for the Degrees, to examine his personal background, his habits, his general philosophy of life, his reputation in the community and among his fellow-workers and associates. We are to diligently inquire among those who know him best and who can be relied upon to furnish as unbiased information as possible. From this information we are to collate and evaluate the Petitioner's qualifications to become one of us. It is not the easiest of Masonic tasks.

The Lodge Brother who is appointed by the Worshipful Master to serve as a member of the Investigating Committee should consider such appointment a high honor, a visible expression of implicit trust and confidence in his ability, his zeal, and his concern for the welfare of the Lodge and Freemasonry. The Worshipful Master, by this appointment, has clearly manifested his respect for the good judgment of the Brother so appointed.

No phase of Masonic work is more important than the thorough, impartial and unbiased investigation of those who seek admission into our ranks. The members of the Investigating Committee are the first line of defense against external enemies of the Craft as well as those who, through indifferent character, might be pi-one to bring discredit upon the Craft. Our fraternal security depends in great part on the ability and fidelity of our Investigating Committee and their findings. In the Ancient Charge at Raising, our duty in this respect is clearly and unmistakably pointed out to us: "To preserve the reputation of the Fraternity unsullied must be your constant care." Besides being an admonition to us in the daily conduct of our lives, it also includes the acceptance of Petitioners.

Each member of this vitally important Committee should ever bear in mind that he may be investigating a Petitioner who might one day become Worshipful Master of his Lodge, or one who may sometime wear "the Purple of the Fraternity" and rule and govern the Grand Jurisdiction. He may be investigating a man who will never become renowned in the Fraternity or ever attend Lodge very often but who would accept the tenets and precepts of Freemasonry and live his future life in full accordance with the spirit of the Fraternity. A man who does not first have Freemasonry in his heart is not likely to ever acquire it in the Lodge room.

In 1824 a man was admitted, without due inquiry, into a Masonic Lodge in one of the Eastern states. As a result, some two years later, this proved the greatest disaster to ever befall Freemasonry in America. Not long afterwards saw the beginning of a long period of Anti-Masonic frenzy in the United States which came close to eradicating the Fraternity. Bigots, political knaves, religious charlatans, and sincere but misguided people united in trying to suppress the Order in America. For some fifteen years it was touch and go for the Fraternity all over the nation. (See S.T.B. of March, 1933, entitled "William Morgan.")

The Investigator has much to consider during his inquiry. How far does he go, how deeply does he delve, what questions are proper to ask, where is a satisfactory stopping place in his task? There is no easy answer to these questions, but he should go far enough and deep enough to satisfy himself beyond doubt that the Petitioner is indeed worthy of consideration for membership. One point should always be stressed: that the Investigator, perhaps pushed for time on his assignment, should never, under any circumstances, restrict his inquiry to contacting the Petitioner's Recommender and asking him for evaluation. When the Recommender brought in the Petition, -it was implied that he himself was satisfied. The Recommender i-nay have thought he knew enough personally about the Petitioner to so recommend him, but at the same time he was relying on the Committee to obtain the full picture of the Petitioner. Nor should the Investigator, at the last minute before time to report, contact the other Committee members, ask the results of their discoveries and, if favorable, to "go along" with their reports. Such an investigation, on its face, is worthless. Each investigator should make an independent inquiry and file his own report, regardless of what the others may do. If the investigator needs more time, the Worshipful Master will grant him whatever reasonable time is needed. Freemasonry is in no hurry and works by no timetable.

How does one go about conducting a full and proper investigation? Obviously, no investigation can be "foolproof" and leave no margin for error or miscalculation. All the highly skilled and professional investigators in the world cannot guarantee the ultimate results of a character investigation. Men change. A man may be one thing today, another tomorrow. There is always the calculated risk. All of us have read of bankers who, after years of utterly honest dealings, have skipped the country with a suitcase full of money belonging to his depositors. Who has not heard or read of the minister, with a wife and family, who runs off with the pretty young widow in the choir: the respected public official who, after a quarter-century of honorable service, suddenly succumbs to a Ruffian named Bribery? No amount of investigation can fully prevent such occurrences.

Fortunately, such contingencies are rare. Many Freemasons express astonishment when they learn that General Benedict Arnold, once a brave, gallant, and faithful American soldier, but whose name has become synonymous with the word, Treason, was a practicing and faithful Freemason who used to visit Lodges during the war with General and Brother Washington. The most skillful and thorough investigation in the early days of Brother Arnold would not likely have presaged such a future possibility.

The Worshipful Master, in making appointments, should not concern himself with the convenience of the Investigator, to appoint him merely because he lives near or works in some proximity to the Petitioner. Not all Brethren are skilled or adept at investigative work. It is always advisable for the Worshipful Master, wherever possible, to select those who have investigative experience, or a talent for such. If they are available, the Worshipful Master might appoint those who are lawyers, law enforcement officers, private investigators, and the like. Because a Brother is a fine ritualist or a great coach does not mean that he is a competent investigator. At the beginning of his "year" the Worshipful Master would be well advised to examine his membership roll and select certain Brethren whom he knows to be qualified or to have such talents as are required. He should rotate such committee assignments among those chosen so that no one group is overly burdened with work.

He should then call a meeting of those selected for the year and explain to them their duties and what the Lodge requires of them. The meeting should produce a broad outline of what normally constitutes a thorough investigation and the Master should emphasize that no phase of investigation is to be left to chance or assumption. The members should be cautioned that there are certain limitations to the scope of their investigations; that each investigator should take into account that although a Petitioner's politics may be different from his own, and they may be of differing religious denominations, that these differences have no bearing on the evaluation of the Petitioner's qualifications for admission into the Lodge. So long as the Petitioner expressly believes in the existence of One Supreme Being, the investigator has no right to probe further and quiz the Petitioner about his church affiliation, or perhaps his lack of same.

Brother Albert G. Mackey said it well; no other religious test is necessary or proper in the candidate, except that he declare himself a firm believer in the existence of a Supreme Being." For the investigator to probe further than this on this question is to turn his inquiry into an inquisition, which would be highly un-Masonic on his part.

Likewise, if one is a Democrat and the other a Republican, this is of absolutely no consequence and should not even be discussed. (Note: in matters political it should be borne in mind that the Communist Party is not a bona fide political party but is held to be an instrument of a foreign power inimical to both the American way of life and to Freemasonry.) Partisan politics and sectarian religion are forbidden subjects in every Masonic Lodge and every Freemason knows this, or should know it.

The investigator should be strongly advised that after a thorough and painstaking investigation, and after he has exhausted all known sources of information, if he is still possessed of doubts of the Petitioner's qualifications, he should always, without variation or hesitation, resolve his doubts in favor of Freemasonry and the Lodge and not in favor of the Petitioner. No man has a right to become a Freemason; it is a privilege controlled at the ballot box.

No attempt is made in these pages to go into the techniques of successful investigations. No specific rules would be applicable everywhere. Generally speaking, all sources of information should be explored which would lead to a complete picture of the Petitioner. He should be a man who first has Freemasonry in his heart, a man of unimpeachable character who enjoys a good reputation among his friends, neighbors, acquaintances and associates wherever he is known. It should be made clear to him, and possibly to his wife, that if he is accepted into the Fraternity, he must sacrifice some time and energy which call for evenings away from home. He should be a man who has a record for paying his just debts and living up to his word, who has no record of living a dissolute life or having immoderate habits. He should have no criminal record. He should have sufficient education to be able to grasp and retain the precepts of Freemasonry as taught him in the lodge. He must be literate and sufficiently fit physically to participate in the degrees. He must have filed his Petition for the mysteries of Freemasonry of his own free will and accord and not from any improper solicitation of friends. He must be unbiased by any mercenary motives. He should not view the Craft Lodge as being nothing more than a stepping stone for what he thinks is something more desirable or where he can have more fun, but where admission is dependent upon his being a member of the Lodge and in good standing.

All these are areas to be explored in detail by the investigator. Such inquiry should be conducted with the utmost tact, discretion, and as diplomatically as possible. Derogatory information developed from the investigation does not become a subject for later gossip and rumors and talk to the detriment of the Petitioner whether he be accepted or rejected.

A negative investigation is utterly worthless. It is not acceptable to file a favorable report because the investigator talked to a number of persons who said "I never heard anything against him." An investigator might talk to scores of people who could say that much. What the investigator is looking for are positive statements attesting to the Petitioner's good name, or his bad name, as the case may be.

What are the advantages of Masonic investigation? The answers, while obvious, warrant repetition: to preserve the reputation of the Craft, to ensure harmony, promote our advancement and our progress in our service to God and man, to maintain our reputation before the world, and to confound our enemies by accepting none but good men and making better men of them, men whom we are proud to address as "Brother," men who can be counted on to practice fidelity even unto death, if need be, to keep the faith of our Masonic ancestors and to pass it on, unsullied, to our Masonic descendants. Make Freemasonry hard to get into; don't sell it cheaply. Worthy men, and worthy men only, are the ones we want. We cannot afford less.

Not only is your own Lodge dependent on you as a successful investigator; so are your neighboring lodges, your Grand Lodge, and Freemasonry the world over. This is a universal Brotherhood; what affects one affects all. When you admit a man to the degrees and to the status of Master Mason, you are opening thousands upon thousands of doors to him over the Masonic world. You are giving him the right to wear the Square and Compasses and to have a claim upon the kindnesses of millions of Freemasons. Let us never forget one of the great maxims of Freemasonry: "Careful inquiry into the physical, intellectual, and moral fitness of every candidate for the mysteries of Freemasonry is indispensable."

All components of the Craft look to you, the Investigator, for the security and well-being of our beloved Fraternity. You are under the gravest of obligations to discharge your duty to the very best of your ability. When you have accomplished this duty with efficiency, zeal, and impartiality, you will have rendered your Brethren, wherever dispersed, an invaluable service. You will have complied with the dictates of your own conscience and the Masonic law which specifies your duty in this field.

Your compensation will be the satisfaction of a job well done and the knowledge that you have been the eyes and ears of the Craft during this period. Whether spoken or not you will have earned the gratitude of your Brethren.

You, the Investigator, have a solemn responsibility. Look well to it!

Introducing the 2023-2024 Grand Master of Masons in Arizona Most Worshipful George Rusk

Servant Leadership

My brothers, I am deeply humbled and honored to be elected to serve as your Grand Master. I take seriously the trust you have instilled in me. I promise to dedicate my year to education, fiscal responsibility, and membership improvement. There are many existing programs that we will continue and new programs we will institute. I can't wait to meet with each of you and talk about improving Freemasonry in Arizona.
Leadership Through Serving.

This year one of our focuses will be Leadership Through Serving, also known as servant leadership, a leadership philosophy that focuses on the needs of the people being led rather than the leader's own self-interest. In this approach, the leader takes on the role of a servant to the people they lead, putting their needs first and working to empower and support them in achieving their goals.

Servant leaders prioritize building relationships with their followers, showing empathy and understanding, and fostering a sense of community and collaboration. They listen actively to feedback and ideas, encourage the development of their team members, and strive to create a positive and inclusive work environment.

By serving their team members and supporting their growth and development, servant leaders can inspire greater engagement, motivation, and loyalty. This approach can also help build trust and respect among team members, leading to greater productivity and higher levels of overall performance and success for Masonry in Arizona.

Motto: Always be Humble and Kind.

Being humble and kind can have many benefits, both for oneself and for those around us. Here are some reasons why it's valuable to cultivate humility and kindness:

Improving relationships: When we approach others with humility and kindness, we are more likely to build positive and healthy relationships. People tend to be drawn to those who are kind and approachable, and being humble can help us avoid conflicts and misunderstandings.

Promoting empathy: Humility and kindness can help us become more attuned to the needs and feelings of others. When we are less focused on our own egos and more open to others' perspectives, we are more likely to show empathy and compassion.

Fostering personal growth: Humility can help us recognize our own limitations and areas for improvement, which can promote personal growth and development. When we are open to feedback and willing to learn from our mistakes, we can become more resilient and adaptable.

Contributing to a better world: Kindness can have a ripple effect, inspiring others to act with compassion and generosity. When we show kindness to others, we can help create a more positive and connected world.

The Autumn Equinox and Freemasonry

On Saturday, September 23rd, 2023 everyone on the planet will experience 12hrs of daylight and 12hrs of darkness, today we are all equal on the planet.

As Masons we seek the light coming from the East. We are now between the two St. Johns: John the Baptist and John the Evangelist in the solar year. We are back to the circumscribed center.

At Chico-Leland Stanford Lodge No. 111 we hope all brethren are able to reflect on Equinox and into the Autumn season about being Masons and keeping it on the level in our dealings with all humans. Equinox the day the whole world is equal in the realm of the solar system that we reside. As we go into the Fall season, the season of St. Michael conquering the dragon, may we all find the strength and the will forces to show our Masonic way to others.

"Brave and True I will be like St. Michael. Each good deed sets me free. Each kind word makes me strong. I will fight for the right. I will conquer the wrong."

Grand Master's Talk

September 2023

Brethren,

September. Summer finally comes to an end and Autumn starts this month. With the end of summer comes the renewed energy of the craft and the many events that accompanies the change in weather in Arizona. In days gone by, September was the time to gather up the rest of the harvest and prepare for the winter months. This was accompanied by feasts and celebrations.

Keep a lookout for the Harvest Moon on September 29th. September also marks the National celebration of workers and their achievements in America, on Labor Day. This national holiday was created when labor activists pushed to recognize the many contributions workers have made to America's strength, prosperity, and well-being. This reminds me of our lesson about the 24-inch gauge, which mentions "...for our usual vocations...". The importance of a mason's vocation, whatever it may be, his ability to support himself and his family, cannot be understated. Set time aside this month to recognize the many vocations you have in lodge and look a little deeper into the origins of why we celebrate Labor Day.

Fraternally and Sincerely,

Grand Master
Grand Lodge of F&AM of Arizona
George R. Rusk
