

Both of them spent their time cleaning up all the plastic they saw. The young turtles had learned that plastic would break down in the ocean and hurt their dear friends, and they also heard of trash that could get other animals stuck in. The united duo quickly cleaned up these hurtful plastics. They were doing everything they could clean up their home.

