

Shelly and Sheldon went together to see their friends and tell them the sad news. They told the fish and jellyfish they lived next to. They were all devastated. So the two turtles promised that they would try as hard as they could to clean up the places and reefs they liked, so no else would have to leave.

