

After Shelly and Shelldon told their friends, it was time to see their favorite places for the last time. They went to see their favorite coral reef, only to see that it was covered in trash. They cleaned up as much as they could, but it wasn't the same place they used to play with their friends.

