

What's going wrong
in this picture?

This is the Bråsvellbreen glacier
in Norway melting
because of global warming and rising sea levels.

What's going wrong
in this picture?

Nests of seabirds called northern gannets have parts of fishing nets in them, polluting their habitat and causing deaths.

What's going wrong
in this picture?

A Galápagos sea lion is tied up with parts of a fishing net, causing stress and difficulties for the animal.

What's going wrong
in this picture?

Shipwreck debris is in the ocean, and
this damages marine habitats
and releases harmful pollutants.

What's going wrong
in this picture?

This Adélie penguin has a tracker taped to its back that senses location and behavior, which can cause stress and behavior changes for the animal.

What's going wrong
in this picture?

A ship in Antarctica is surrounded by melting ice, destroying the habitats of animals, a drastic effect of global warming.

