

Gun Use Over-The-Top-Reaction

Once again people blame the gun and not the shooter. All gun laws apply to law abiding citizens and not to criminals or mentally deranged people. Every law abiding citizen does not require more restrictions what they need is better enforcement of the existing laws. Every city or state with the most extreme regulations, are not immune to violence where a firearm is used. So why not put mentally disabled in clinics or asylums like we once did? This will solve some of the problem. Next, violators need to go to jail and complete their sentences in full and not have their sentences commuted for political reasons. This still would help cities like Chicago, but it will not stop terrorists from executing these acts of violence. Stricter control of the immigration process would help. But, nothing will stop a person or persons hell bent on killing people, as the heinous acts in France, which has some of the strictest control laws in the world, prove. Time will tell, hopefully, why the cowardly murderer/terrorist in Las Vegas decided to massacre innocent people.
