Yesterday our Supreme Court of the United States morphed from what our founding fathers envisioned, and proscribed with their Constitutional writings, to a new fourth branch of government within our republic. A long sentence but says it all.

In a petition by the Trump administration concerning the Alien Enemies Act (AEA) and district courts issuing national injunctions, SCOTUS wrote law. (Yes, only Congress is supposed to write laws.)

The AEA law was passed by Congress in 1798, used in two prior precedences and survived multiple court challenges. In a nutshell, the law gives the President the legal right to expeditiously round up "alien foreigners" here to do us harm, and throw them out of our country. Make no bones this is NOT an immigration issue, although it could be. By design it is a quick and decisive way the President can protect America from these uninvited alien foreigners whose intent is to put our citizens in mortal danger,

The flash point came when Homeland Security sent an AEA designated criminal alien foreigner to Venezuela. This alien had two prior court ordered deportations before he was designated as an AEA candidate. The due processes already afforded to the alien by our immigration laws were superseded by the AEA. In a nutshell the AEA says we catch you; you're out of here. Do not pass go.

Well, the lefties bitched and challenged that "do not pass go" saying the criminal alien foreigner was not afforded due process. SCOTUS specifically declared the illegal criminal foreigner could not be thrown out of our country unless and until he is give notice that he was going to be deported, given time to get a lawyer and give opportunity to challenge the "throw out". The AEA act gives the president the legal authority to "throw illegals out" immediately.

Now I have spent a great deal of my life getting educated and being educated, but SCOTUS is in Never-Never land on this ruling. They are moving goal posts by asserting requirements not in the law. The illegal criminal alien already attended two deportation court hearings, with council. Both those hearing determined he was to be deported.

What can I say? SCOTUS did NOT do its constitutional job. It did not declare the AEA law unconstitutional, as what the Constitution mandates it could have done. Instead, it decided to “add more language” to the Congressionally passed AEA law.

Put that into your pipe and smoke it. All is lost when we cannot trust SCOTUS.
