

TDS Versus Black Discrimination

My cohort here at TwoSmartFarts.com presented a really good analogy on TDS (Trump Derangement Syndrome). The comparison of TDS to racial bias in the 50 and 60s seemed on point.

In the 50-60s many white folks would have the tendency to walk to the other side of the street when a black man was approaching. They could not tell you why, they just did. They did not know if that man was a factory worker who built your car, a bus driver that drove your kids, an accountant that handled tax issues or an Army Vet that fought for the country. They just averted their glances and moved away.

That is what TDS is to a third of America and to all elected democratic leaders. (By saying a third of America, maybe I am giving too much credit for rational thought to democrats.) The liberals hate the president. When the public is asked why they usually respond with “his language”, “he is a racist”, “he is mean”, they do not like his personality. Well he can be off-putting with his barbs and that could be interpreted as mean in some cases, but remember he is typically responding to some sort of character assassination leveled at him. He is not one to turn the cheek, like George W Bush. As for being a racist, well that is clearly a false accusation as there is no proof of that. Yeah, I know there were things hurled at Obama, but the MSM press did not publish them and Obama spied on the press that did.

As for Trump’s personality that is all in the eyes of the beholder. Some like the “Fighter in Chief” as he will not take a punch without hitting back. Many think a president should just take all the insults and slanderous accusations and suck it up. Sorry, this president is not that guy. He was elected knowing that he has that trait.

What is wrong with the leftist is that they will not take the effort to really listen to what he says in the context in which he gives it. The left is devoid of a sense of humor. The classic case is his asking Russia to find Hillary’s missing email. That became “proof” that he was working for Putin. It actually became proof that the left is unhinged.

As it was stupid in the 50-60s not to learn if the black guy could be a good guy, they just reacted to the gossip of the neighbors (Twitter/ Facebook) or the propaganda of some news organizations (just like today). If the white person knew that the black guy saved lives while in the Army, they probably would have had a different reaction. If the democrats would recognize the achievements that President Trump has accomplished, they would probably have a different opinion of his record. It is his record that counts, not his personality.
