

Artificial Intelligence – Just a Name

First came global cooling, then global warming, then climate change, then COVID and now AI. Fog and frozen smoke have been leveraged against us since the early 60's when the government picked up the mantle rather than your Aunt Mable. That made the difference. That was the flame to start a fire with different outcomes and goals. How many fools can be made that will never believe in what we say? Control of the people. That is the end game of government, and we see the experiment being developed again, and again.

Climate Change claims have been sufficiently debunked to damper its “alarm” but the changing of Convenient Fools to Collective Stupidity has grown in strength. All as a matter of compliance and control of the masses, and could it be done?

Then came COVID. Where government actions leapfrogged from warnings and scare tactics with civic manipulations to outright control with criminal reprisals. We looked the other way as our Constitution got screwed.

I sit and watch the local news. It has the same theme and mantra as before but now dubbed as “Artificial Intelligence”. We are being told AI is a developing breed just like Sonny in the movie, I-Robot. Yup, its claims to capacity are being defined by the limitless imagination of the government power brokers. They actually have us believing cash machines, elevators and car fobs are all products of AI, yet all existed long before.

AI does not learn in a conventional way. It only “looks like it”. Its world is defined by programmers (remember them). The answers to queries are created by the programmers. Its Boolean logic and algorithms of choosing content is directed by the programmer, who then shows the answer in the language of the user. AI is a programmer with lipstick. The “Oz” behind the curtain.

But in reality, AI does run our cell phones, assist with our driving and controls, less than 4% of our manufacturing environment, it is not creating an evolution of labor force reductions. That is an AI false narrative

The AI mantra has become as rabid as keeping 6 feet away from each other. Blind faith with consequences and even punishment when one disbelieves the AI chants. The Japanese roll out human look-alike robots who can walk and talk, proclaiming AI, so that we jaw drop in the same manner of a magic trick. We are being set up. They will perfect the appearance of human intelligence in the delivery of content, or better, and sell it as replication of the current human who executes those functions and positions. He is one of us, convincing enough to be elected to positions of power.

Artificial Intelligence – Just a Name

We are being told to believe the face of AI, is “intelligent”. Far from the truth and far from the blind faith objective. Some of us older “programmers” know AI’s Achilles heel. Everything it says or tells you to do, was put there before AI said it by the programmer. The time is near. While you wait, go read Aldous Huxley’s Brave New World.
