

The Democrat Leadership Dilemma

Hank Johnson, a Democratic congressman from Georgia's 4th District, recently made a comment that was, stupidity-wise, on par with his 2010 statement about the island of Guam potentially capsizing if too many Marines were placed on one side. (Yes he said that.)

However, Johnson then expressed his grievances on the defunding claim of the Dept. of Education in a very weird way.

(Defunding DOE) "It's a recipe to make education unavailable to black people. And where does that then leave us? It puts us back to when America was great, and we were picking cotton and all of it. ... They're putting my Latino brothers and sisters who migrate here to do that work because we are not suited intellectually to do it anymore, but they would have us back confined to doing that kind of work," Johnson said.

"Did he just say that blacks were no longer intellectually suited for fieldwork ... but Hispanics are?" Glenn Beck asked in disbelief.

Yes this guy is racist. To quote another mental-midget, Rep. Al Green (D-Texas), this is "invidious racism" by a U.S. congressman.

Despite his bio below, this is a guy who is really stupid. I mean it. So how did he get stupid? He went to Washinton D.C. and drank the water. Then made Kool Aid with the water and took a bath in it.

He promoted the SMLEA act (Demilitarize Police forces). Yes, make sure the police are not as well armed as the bad guys. Now that doesn't sound smart, does it?

From Congressman Hank Johnson's Website

Congressman Johnson was born in Washington, D.C. and earned his B.A. in Political Science from Clark College (now Clark Atlanta University) and his J.D. from the Thurgood Marshall School of Law at Texas Southern University. Prior to Congress, he practiced law for 27 years in Decatur, Georgia, specializing in criminal defense, civil rights, and personal injury law. He also served as a Magistrate Judge for 12 years, and as a DeKalb County Commissioner for five years.

Why am I picking on Johnson? He is not the only doofus in congress. He is the doofus du jour who says things to endear himself to the radical left, not that he isn't left. Today in the democratic party there is no leader, no person to rally around. Just think that Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (U.S. Representative NY) is the leader with a 10% favorability. Consider her background credentials against Hank Johnson. Why isn't he considered in the leader contest?

Maybe because On October 5, 2014 The Washingtonian published its 15th biennial "Best & Worst of Congress" list. Johnson was voted "Most Clueless" by congressional staffers. Yet 11 years later he is still in congress saying stupid things. Hank is why there needs to be term limits.

The Democrat Leadership Dilemma

AOC graduated cum laude from Boston University in 2011 with an undergraduate degree in International relations and economics, was a bartender and activist, then a member of congress in 2019. Although popular she is a doofus. She cost her own district thousands of well-paying jobs by lobbying against NYC investing $3 billion in Amazon building a warehouse. The action cost NYC $27 billion in revenue. But AOC is media savvy. Compare her Wikipedia page to Johnson. You would think she was in congress for 18 years and not Johnson.

Here is the dilemma of the democrat party. They need a qualified leader. They haven't had one since Bill Clinton. Obama was a media created figure with the aid of Soros money. Clinton had experience as a governor but was also a bright guy and knew how to play ball with congress. Clinton ran a small state so had to deal with tight money issues. Newsom in California has squandered billions of CA taxpayer dollars, he is no longer viable for president. The rest of the democratic governors suffer from wokeism and TDS and have no chance.

In 2028 Sandy Cortez will be 39 years old. She may not be the lead on the presidential ticket but she will be on the ticket. They need her charisma and media savvy. She can't be worse than VP Biden or VP Harris. The question will be who will lead the ticket that AOC will accept?

TwoSmartFarts – March 2025