Jeff Hales (JT), Managing Member, MNS Investing LLC

Jeff Hales brings over 20 years of management and market experience to MNS Investing LLC. His career began in the international trade division of a Goldman Sachs, owned subsidiary, where he gained firsthand insight into the structure, precision, and risk controls of institutional trade.

After two decades in corporate leadership, Jeff transitioned full time into active market trading in 2024. His analytical background and decision-making discipline, honed through years of managing teams and high-stakes operations, now drives his success as a professional trader.

Jeff's proprietary JT Training Cards system (currently in the advanced development stage) captures the essence of his trading philosophy: structure, accountability, and transparency. The two-sided card design transforms real setups into visual lessons, each showing both the trade and its graded result, to reinforce data-driven learning and emotional control.

Through MNS Investing LLC, Jeff provides investors with access to a disciplined, transparent, and proven trading approach built on institutional standards and personal accountability.

“Your Capital. My Discipline. Great Opportunities.”
