

America is Not Christian, and Jesus was a Communist

“America is a Christian nation” is one of the biggest world-wide lies and contradictory statements to ever be made. A country that placed humans in internment camps during WW2, imprisoned citizens for believing in communism, firing tens of thousands of workers for the sake of saving a dollar over the wellbeing of human life, and deporting tax contributing humans who never miss rent. This nation isn’t even spiritual, let alone Christian.

Pick up a book, read Carl Marx and you will realize that Jesus would’ve been a communist by today’s standards. He would be flipping the tables of capitalism, condemning the lives of billionaires, and demoralizing any preacher who dared to state that God is not present in lives of those who follow it. Jesus would see the idols of capitalism and demand their submission. They wouldn’t listen to him, just as they don’t listen to morality now, and they would claim Jesus to be too ‘woke,’ but then go to church and pretend to be Christian.

We have religious leaders who think that they have moral supremacy over the infallible. Stating that they know who should and shouldn’t be saved because of a belief, sexuality, or any other humanistic trait. Imagine denying someone salvation because of your interpretation of the writings of man.

Friends will make fun of each other, thinking that their comments have no weight because they are made “light-heartedly,” failing to realize the concept of; treating others the way you wish to be treated. People who swear every Sunday to be a better person, spend their Monday’s negatively criticizing others for their favoritism of one team over another. Would you tell Jesus that his admiration for the Dallas Cowboys is “moronic” or that his love for the WNBA qualifies him as a “faggot?”

Just because you were granted the reprieve from your sins doesn’t mean you get to live an ungodly lifestyle. Those who claim not to believe in the realms of current Christianity, walk a path closer to God than you ever will in your ignorance. You listen blindly to leaders who spread rhetoric corrupted by political/social beliefs and schemas. God demands that you open, not only your ears, but also your heart. A closed heart is an empty soul and God can do nothing with an empty vessel.

Sexuality, race, gender, illness, anything that is inherent to you and non-disputable are the characteristics God cares about most. God hates humanity but loves the individual. Until we learn to listen and care about one another, this fact will never change. God is found in each and everyone of us, not in an egocentric identity.

God is not Christian, the world is not Christian, America is not Christian, but we are all human. God loves the human just as much as it loves the birds and the trees. Stop confusing this for selfish, idealistic devotion. Everyone has the right to worship and more important, everyone has the right to be loved.
