"THE CDC IS... WRONG"

"The CDC's recommendation to use hand sanitizer with at least 60% ethanol is wrong with reference to Coronavirus, and its guidelines need updating."-Forbes

There are many companies out there selling hand sanitizer, many of which do not have the recommended 80% alcohol content recommended by the World Health Organization. Articles like the one mentioned above are quite shocking, seeing as though there is a surge in the United States of the novel Coronavirus.

80%

"So how much alcohol do you actually need? According to a systematic review of scientific studies by Günter Kampf of the Institute of Hygiene and Environmental Medicine, Germany, ethanol is highly effective at 80% concentration, which is the level where the alcohol will inactivate an enveloped virus within 30 seconds. At 43% ethanol starts working against the original SARS-CoV-1, whose structure is almost identical to the novel coronavirus that causes Covid-19."-Forbes

THE RIGHT ONE

Our hand sanitizer is made with 80% ethanol, the amount recommended by the World Health Organization to help stop the COVID-19 by breaking down its protective wall. We now have hand sanitizer in stock and ready to ship to companies nationwide. We also now have this powerful sanitizer in gel, which can be more convenient for on the go.

COMPLIANCE... AND CARE

When the US called for distilleries in the country to produce hand sanitizer, we answered. Above everything else, we have always strived to produce the MOST effective hand sanitizer against the COVID-19, we even hired a medical doctor to oversee our production, to ensure we got it right, because we care.

As we continue to navigate through this "new normal" you can rest assured that purchasing hand sanitizer from JLA Distillery, although unconventional, will prove to be a win. Most of us have been experiencing the "unconventional" for a while now and have come to understand that doing something differently brings many, surprisingly, good outcomes.
