

A 3 Part Summer Art Series:

Cultivating Children's Relationships with the Natural World through the Use of Art Materials

Part 1: Explore what current literature has to say about the importance of the natural world and art in children's lives and what our role is in facilitating these relationships.

Date and Time: Wednesday, April 13th, 2022 6-7:30pm EST

Part 2: See and hear examples from a visual artist who uses the natural world in her work. Engage in an outdoor drawing exercise and reflect on its significance.

Date and Time: Saturday, May 14th, 2022 9:30-11am EST

Part 3: Consider the value of creating an outdoor studio and discover ideas for creating either a permanent or transient space.

Date and Time: Tuesday, June 7th, 2022 6-7:30pm EST

COST: $30/session or $75 for all 3
