

I learn my rights, people respect me

My right to understand my information

My right to ask questions

My right to have people listen to me

My right to say NO

My right to love

My right to have a family

My right to have a pet

My right to choose my home apartment, house

My right to choose when and what I eat

My right to have money (wallet purse bank)

My right to understand my medicine

My right to privacy and private space

My right to believe in God, Buddha church meditation

my own beliefs

My right to feel happy, sad, angry, lonely, hungry, tired, excited, scared, proud

My right to have a job, make money, work

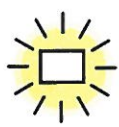

My right to be included my community

My right to vote

My right to be informed

My right to try new activities

My right to be treated fairly

My right to pick my friends

My right to complain or talk to CLS