Our El Salvador Mission Team: Providing Essential Aid and Building Relationships

Traditionally a Catholic country, El Salvador has begun to reopen, and although nothing is confirmed yet, our Mission Team hopes to return for the first time since 2019.

“We’re really looking forward to returning to El Salvador when we can,” says John Sabo. “We’ve been going down there for so many years, and we’ve developed relationships with a lot of families. They recognize you and know you when you come back.”

The El Salvador Mission Team began in 2013 when Fr. Michael Denk led a conversation about mission work and the type of missions our faith community might want to become involved in together.

“He was familiar with doing mission work in Africa and El Salvador, and the Cleveland Diocese had groups going down to El Salvador already,” John says. “That was the direction we started leaning.”

John had been with his high school daughter on mission teams in the Appalachians and had enjoyed the experience.

“In light of that, I thought I would branch out a little farther,” he says.

The 2019 mission team

The mission trip is open to parishioners from other faith communities, and since 2013, they have generally traveled each year to El Salvador together for about a week in the spring.

“What we do when we’re there varies, from painting to teaching to visiting with families,” John says. “There are several Masses a day, and we travel around and build relationships. The children put on plays for us in the different towns. Every year, we do different things.”

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Mission Team has continued to support families and individuals in El Salvador in different ways.

The Importance of Attending Mass From Beginning to End

There seems to be an epidemic among Catholics in some parishes. They receive Communion and rush out the door, sometimes even before others have received the Eucharist. Some may remain, but often they, too, may depart before the final blessing, even before the celebrant priest processes out. This is an unfortunate circumstance – it is not that there is never a reason for an early departure, some sort of family emergency, a medical issue, or an unruly family member. However, assuring that you are the first out of the parking lot, being first in line at the local restaurant, seeing the kickoff of the football game, or getting to the golf course seem a bit trivial in relation to the beauty and the glory and the significance of the Mass and the Eucharist.

Rather than focus on the motivation for leaving before Mass is completed, we need to initially consider why we are even in attendance at Mass. The high point of the Mass is the reception of the Eucharist. Jesus instituted the Sacrament of the Eucharist at the Last Supper. He held up the bread and said, “This is my body,” and then He held up the cup and said, “This is my blood.” The Catholic Mass is an awesome event for us as Catholics. Jesus Christ becomes truly present in the Eucharist. We gather at Mass to receive this gift, but we also gather in community to offer praise and worship to Him, to be spiritually fed, as well.

The Code of Canon Law makes it clear that we are to attend Mass – “On Sundays and other holy days of obligation the faithful are bound to participate in the Mass” (1247). It does not say “in part” or “in parts of the Mass.” The expectation is that each of us as Catholics will attend a complete Mass. That, it would seem, is a sticking point with some. How often have we heard or participated in a conversation, the gist of which is, “What constitutes a complete Mass?”

There are so many considerations and perspectives about this issue. We might consider some of the counterarguments. For example, only one person left the Last Supper early – Judas Iscariot. Jesus has invited us to a banquet. Would we go to a meal with someone else, and suddenly get up and leave after we had eaten? That would seem to be a bit rude. Are we truly there to be part of our faith community? If so, should we not as a community begin and end together?

The official General Instruction of the Roman Missal says that at the end of Mass, we are “sent to do good works, while praising and blessing the Lord” (90). Our task as Catholics does not end with Mass. Christ has called us to mission – a mission of proclaiming God’s Word and serving others. There are 168 hours in a week. Even if we consider our Sunday Mass to be a two-hour commitment, that is a mere 1.2 percent of our total week.

We cannot give God that much time and that much commitment? After the Last Supper, Jesus went to the Garden of Gethsemane to pray. He took with Him the Apostles Peter, James, and John. However, when He returned to where He had left them, He found them asleep. His exact words to Peter were, “Could you not watch with me for one hour?” That is a question and a challenge evidently for some of us, as well. Are we not at Mass because we love the Lord, and we care for those in our community? Or are we there for some personal and selfish reason? We reiterate that there may well be legitimate reasons for leaving a Mass before it is completed. God understands that. Nevertheless, we need to make sure that our reasoning is indeed sound and not something petty or minor. After we receive the Lord at Mass, we are, in effect, a walking tabernacle. We need to act that way.

A Letter from Our Pastor

What Is the Real Purpose of Our Lives?

Dear Members of St. Joseph and Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary Parishes,

Do you ever think about your purpose in life? Even as a priest, I certainly do. There are days and times of frustration when I think, “What am I really supposed to be doing? What does God want me to do?” For eons, philosophers have considered these very questions and written about them.

But the truth is that we, as Catholics, already know the answers.

When we consider the many facets of life in our parish communities, there are numerous activities and endeavors that go beyond attending Mass. From fundraising efforts, to social outreach/service, childcare and more, there are many ways in which we serve our communities.

Yet, as we undertake these important pursuits — both within and outside our parishes — we must always remember that our ultimate goal is salvation. After all, the only reason we exist, the only reason our Church exists, is the same as the reason Jesus joined us and became a part of us here on earth — He came to save humanity.

We use the term the “body of Christ” to describe the Church with Christ as the head. We are all parts of that body, and the parts of the body must move in the same direction as the body itself — it simply won’t function if the parts are moving in different directions. We are all in this together.

When our lives are complete, we do not base our success or failure on how much money we have, or whether or not we are famous. Nor does our success or failure depend upon the difference between health and sickness, or pleasure and pain. Rather, it is the difference between being saved and not being saved.

I often think of my family members who have passed away, and as a priest, I deal with that issue with others on a very regular basis. Sometimes, I wonder if they all fully realized that salvation was the answer to so many of our questions in life.

I am surrounded by memories of those who have gone before, as are you. We are apt to use the term “the communion of saints” in many ways in our Church. Someday, we will know more about the “communion of saints” and how it all works. In the meantime, we pray for everyone who has gone before us, hoping they have made it home.

Please pray for me as I pray for you!

Gratefully in Christ,

IMMERSION Youth Group Works to Build a Strong Faith Foundation for Young Catholics

Throughout our lifetimes, we all see and hear immoral messages. As adults, we can discern and determine which messages are right or wrong. However, for teens in their formative years, this can be difficult. It's the job of our parish community to set our youth on a path to success and to help them develop a firm foundation in the faith.

One way to do that is through IMMERSION youth group, a ministry of our St. Joseph and Nativity Parishes. IMMERSION is a resource for all teens of the parish to learn more about the Catholic faith and to meet others striving to live a holy life. It's a chance to really explore the faith more deeply.

"Sadly, the world is bombarding us all day, every day with messages that are anti-Christ and against His teachings," says Youth Director John Kowalski. "Moral relativism continues to grow and encompass us."

John leads the two groups of IMMERSION — one for seventh and eighth-grade youth and another for ninth to 12th-grade youth. The seventh and eighth-grade program offers a strong focus on learning the Mass, and the high school program focuses on catechesis, while also covering the saints and other Catholic topics.

"IMMERSION focuses on more day-to-day challenges that students will have to their Catholic faith, as well as growth in their relationship with our Lord," John says.

John looks forward to being together for in-person events this summer and fall. Meeting virtually during the COVID-19 pandemic just wasn't the same.

"Human beings are social," John says. "We like to interact even if we are in small groups. We like to laugh, and we laugh more together than we do alone."

The time during IMMERSION meetings is really dedicated to learning the Catholic faith. It's a time to learn, share, pray and just be together.

"God deserves our acknowledgment in everything we do every day," John says. "I hope this gets incorporated in the teens' lives if it is not already there."

John organizes youth group time to be 10 to 15 minutes of a topic, followed by a game or activity to highlight the topic. He often uses videos to support the lessons. He also invites parents to help lead their teens to Christ and one way is through IMMERSION.

"Teens need to know there is more than the world they see," he says. "God's love will fulfill them beyond what they can imagine. They don't know what they are missing until they experience it."

A picnic party was held for IMMERSION in May 2021.

The IMMERSION summer sessions are going on now! The topic is miracles. Come at 7:30 p.m. on July 14, 28 and Aug. 11 at the former convent at St. Joseph's. Please contact John Kowalski to RSVP at 440-309-5006 or JohnKowalski@stjohnamherst.com. This is a rain or shine event!

"We've been involved in the past year with food and aid," John says. "Our main contribution has been financial. Many of the stores in El Salvador were closed, so we sent what we could."

This year, the Mission Team hopes to begin planning a return trip to El Salvador for 2022. There are many different ways the faith community can support the return of the mission, but the primary way is through prayer.

"Always pray for us," John says. "As a team we also do fundraisers, and people have either sponsored or helped sponsor someone since we pretty much pay our own way."

Parishioners are also welcome to join the mission trip, and John emphasizes that age doesn't matter when serving our brothers and sisters in El Salvador.

"There is a wide range of ages on each trip," John says. "I can't speak for everyone, but I have missed going to El Salvador and building those relationships. It's like I have family there now, and I want to see them again soon."
