
Washington Export Resource Guide

A directory of export programs and services for Washington businesses

Prepared by the Export Finance Assistance Center of WA with contributions from WEOT partner organizations

The Washington Export Outreach Team (WEOT) is a partnership of local, state, regional, and federal agencies and organizations that work together to help Washington businesses sell internationally. Created in 2013 to strengthen statewide export support, WEOT brings together organizations that provide training, advising, market intelligence, in-country expertise, and guidance on export financing.

This guide helps businesses understand the export resources available across Washington — what's out there, who to contact, and how to find the right fit. Each WEOT organization provides different services, and if one isn't the best fit, you'll be connected to a partner better suited to your needs.

Beyond WEOT members, Washington's export ecosystem also includes regional and industry partners who play an essential role in supporting local businesses. While not formal WEOT members, their expertise helps create a complete picture of the resources available statewide.
